Rizzo charged 46-count indictment alleges Rizzo stole $1M from Tsongas campaign

By Lisa Boudreau

Democratic fundraiser Nicholas A. Rizzo Jr., 59, was arrested early Monday morning at his home, 30 Hemlock Road, by federal agents, and was charged in a 46-count indictment. Mr. Rizzo, chief fundraiser for Paul Tsongas' bid for president last year, is charged with committing mail fraud, money laundering, bank fraud, making false statements to the Federal Election Commission and violating federal election laws.

Mr. Rizzo pleaded not guilty at his arraignment Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Boston. He was released on a $100,000 unsecured bond.

Mr. Rizzo's lawyer, Vincent Manzi, of Lawrence, said Wednesday that the government is "grandstanding" and "headline hunting." He said that prosecutors are combining complaints about Mr. Rizzo's private business loans with questionable use of campaign money.

The indictment alleges Mr. Rizzo fraudulently obtained funds earmarked for the

What's not in next year's budget?

By Don Staruk

While voters at Town Meeting in April will approve or disapprove the items included in the fiscal '94 municipal budget, little mention will be made of the items not included in the budget for next year.

"This is an essential budget," Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski said last week. "With the exception of a small amount of money for the summer youth program that (Selectman) Larry Larsen is interested in, there's nothing new in the budget. It's really a hold-the-line budget. It's just maintaining what we've been doing."

All departments have a "wish list" of what they would get if they had more money, and several department heads last week talked about some of those items.

Tackling gender bias at AHS

By Lisa Boudreau

Andover High School seniors Laura Morrissey and Christine Boutureira are discouraged by what they say is the nonexistent representation of women in the school's curricula and the way teachers treat female students different from their male counterparts. They formed a women's issues group earlier in the school year to discuss the problems and find solutions.

"I took a class last year called Dominant Ideas of Modern Man. We spent just two weeks talking about sexism in society. It made me realize that a lot of classes don't make an effort to include contributions from women to that subject area," said Ms. Morrissey.

"There aren't any role models for female students to relate to," she said.

Both young women agree that gender bias is a problem in and out of the classroom. Ms. Boutureira said female teachers as well as male teachers treat girls differently. She said the problems range from cute nicknames to comments about female students' clothes or appearance. Ms. Boutureira said she has never heard the same comments made to male students.

The groups's goal is to make the Andover high community aware of the bias and negative attitudes toward women. There are almost as many male students as female students in the group.

"At first I had suggested not having men in the group, but my idea was voted down," said Ms. Morrissey.

"I'm glad. They are able to add another dimension to the discussions and give us their point of view," she said.

The first time senior Tony Soleri attended one of the group's meetings it was at Ms. Boutureira's urging. "She kind of dragged me here, but now I definitely come here on my own," said Mr. Soleri.

"It is a good place to come and talk about everything from current events to how women feel about a lot of the things that guys do that bother them," he said.

Justin Bosenblatt, a senior, said he enjoys the group discussions because he feels at ease with the members.

"I've talked to my sister who is away at college. She's seen a lot of the things that have happened at her school like acquaintance rape. If there had been a group like this for those women maybe they would have been better able to protect themselves," he said. "A group like this is definitely needed for women. They are the ones who are going to have to force the changes. If (men) are getting an easy ride, why are they going to initiate the changes. It isn't right, but I do think that that is the way it is," he said.

One of the issues discussed at a recent meeting was the stereotypical roles many teen-age boys expect girls to play on dates. Ms. Boutureira said many boys expect their dates to play a "little woman" role, which she finds condescending.

In addition to gender bias, members say they also are concerned about increasing incidences of violence toward women in society and at Andover high.

"A lot of kids wonder what we are all about," said Ms. Morrissey.

"We aren't a group of male bashers and we don't wear combat boots," said Julie Chen, a freshman.

Ms. Chen said she became interested in the group this fall. As a first-year student at the school she said she noticed a change in the attitudes and expectations of boys at the high school compared to the middle

NEWS IN BRIEF

Selectmen delay approving water and sewer hikes

By Lisa Boudreau

Proposed water and sewer fee increases were delayed Monday night when selectmen decided to review the 1994 budget before approving any hikes in the fees.

The board voted unanimously on Selectman Bill Downs' motion to table any vote until after the board reviews the budget and determines what effect the anticipated reduction in Andover's fee to the Greater Lawrence Sanitary District would have on Andover's water and sewer rates.

According to Bob McQuade, director of public works, the town's estimated payment of $1.1 million to the GLSD may be reduced by $100,000.

The proposed 6 percent increase in water fees would raise the rate from $2.33 to $2.47 per 100 cubic feet; and the proposed 5.5 percent increase in sewer fees would raise the rate from $1.98 to $2.08 per 100 cubic feet.

If approved, citizens would see the rates in their summer bills, which would reflect six months of water and sewer use.

Town trash costs are up, down

By Don Staruk

The bad news is the cost of solid waste disposal will go up next year. The good news is it won't go up as much as it could have.

Town's into deficit spending due to depleted snow budget

By Don Staruk and Alix Driscoll

Two snowstorms last week depleted the last of the town's snow removal budget, according to Bob McQuade, Department of Public Works director. Sunday's major storm dumped 10 inches of snow to give a total of 48 inches this winter and caused the closure of schools on Monday. According to Mr. McQuade, the weekend storm caused "a fiscal deficit" of $57,710.40.

The town will continue to plow, sand and salt the roads as needed, but all the money spent for the rest of this season will have to come out of next year's budget, fiscal 1994. One of the first items up for vote at April Town Meeting will be a request for approval of deficit spending, including whatever the overrun is in the snow budget. If it is significant, cuts may have to be made in the FY '94 budget to absorb the cost, according to Mr. McQuade.

According to the 1992 Finance Committee Report, "Fiscal Year '89 had very little snow. FY '90 had a more normal winter. FY '91 and FY '92 were good years," said Mr. McQuade. A storm of long duration, such as the one this past weekend, costs the town about $70,000. About 75 pieces of equipment fight each storm; 13 are town-owned.

Jonathan Toland shovels out his Bartlet Street house on Monday, when school was cancelled due to the storm.

Waste Committee, the group that oversees operation of the trash-to-energy disposal facility in North Andover where Andover takes its trash, refinanced the bonded indebtedness for construction of the plant, saving $32.5 million. The total remaining of the bond for the construction is $189 million.

"It was a very profitable refinancing we went through last week," Mr. McQuade told selectmen.

"That $32 million represents almost $20 on the tipping fee," Mr. McQuade said this week.

But that $20 per-ton savings only offsets part of a tipping fee hike expected later this year.

The tipping fee, the per-ton cost of unloading solid waste at the incinerator, is currently about $70. The fee was expected to go up to $100- or $110-per-ton this July because of the costs of upgrading the plant with air scrubbers to take more pollutants out of the air released from the plant.

The refinancing will reduce the increase so that the new rate will be $80 or $90, according to Mr. McQuade.

Return your census form

The annual town census for 1993 was mailed to residents in mid-January. The town clerk's office reports a 73 percent return on the census to date.

If you have not already returned your census, the town clerk's office urges you to do so.

The current count is the basis for allocation of state and federal funds.

The only legal way the town clerk can verify residency is through the town census. This is important for school enrollment, the voting list and the maintenance of updated statistics.

"Dates were getting different. They're definitely not the same," said Ms. Chen, referring to the increasing pressure in the upper grades to become sexually active.

She said dates in middle school tended to be group outings. In high school one-on-one dates are the norm.

Sophomore Sarah Weir said when she entered the high school she was "shocked" to hear and see the things "older" students did on dates and at parties. Ms. Weir said boys at the high school often brag about their sexual encounters - real and fabricated.

"I know a lot of boys who expect sex" on a date, said Ms. Chen.

Next month the group will sponsor an assembly at the school on date rape and violence toward women. Many of the members said they have witnessed verbal and sometimes physical abuse toward female students at the school. Most of what the members said they have seen is verbal abuse and physical intimidation by boys of girlfriends.

The assembly is planned for Friday, March 5. A representative from the local women's resource center will speak on related issues.

Shawsheen Square re-design is on hold

By Lisa Boudreau

Selectmen Monday night voted down changes that would have paved the way for major redesign of Shawsheen Square at the intersections of Route 28 (North Main Street) and Haverhill and Lowell streets.

The construction would have been funded by state and federal grants. Its purpose was to reduce the impact of traffic entering and leaving Brickstone Square office park located off Haverhill Street behind Woodworth Motors.

Traffic lights will be erected on the corner of Kenilworth Street and the north-bound side of Route 28 to help reduce traffic problems of vehicles entering and leaving Brickstone Square. The lights will be synchronized with traffic signals at Shawsheen Square.

The Kenilworth lights were approved several months ago and are funded by grants. Construction will begin around April and finish in late spring.

Kenilworth area resident Dominic Terranova, 386 North Main St., questioned the time of day that the lights would be in operation. Laura Hill, senior town planner, said Monday night that the lights are scheduled to operate from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. on weekdays and flash between that time and on the weekends.

Mr. Terranova said traffic after 6:30 p.m. is light and the lights should flash much earlier than 9 p.m. Selectmen said town and state officials will monitor the lights and modifications will be made if necessary.

Selectman Jim Barenboim said that the new lights and the addition of a left-turn-only lane on the south-bound lane of Route 28 at the Haverhill Street intersection may be enough to reduce the impact of the office park traffic.

"We should have a six-month or so trial period to see how that works out before we approve any major plan," he said.

John Kennedy, one of the engineers working on the Shawsheen Square project, said the lights at Kenilworth Street are a start, but not a final solution to the increased volume of traffic from Brickstone.

"Traffic lights don't provide for more (traffic) capacity. They just provide some order," he said.

The proposed plan to redesign Shawsheen Square came under fire from selectmen at previous meetings during the past two months. Several neighbors, including Cornelius Wood, grandson of the original developer of Shawsheen Village, spoke against redesigning the square.

Mr. Wood, of 276 North Main St.,

called the plan a "disaster" and said it would "louse up" the aesthetics of the square.

"There have got to be more imaginative ways to get to Brickstone. Maybe from I 495 or from the South Broadway bridge that people haven't thought of," Mr. Wood said.

The technical school offers a variety of courses

Zoe and Julian are students from Lawrence who are beating the odds and are not succumbing to the city's soaring high-school drop-out rate. The technical school also enrolls students from Methuen, North Andover and Andover. GLTHS combines job training classes with a regular academic high school curriculum.

Students attend academic classes for a week and then attend vocational training classes for a week. First-year students choose six of the many different vocational programs at the school and rotate through such classes as fine arts, culinary arts, electrical, autobody and mechanics and many others. Then they choose a discipline and remain in that track until graduation. Students can switch vocational disciplines, but they must finish the required training to receive a vocational certificate as well as a high school diploma.

After Julian's rotation through the school's vocational offerings he chose the fine arts department. He was in the electronics classes part of last year while he was placed on the graphic arts department's waiting list.

"I liked being able to try different things before I had to make up my mind," he said.

"The hands-on part of the school is good because there is only so much you can learn in a book. When you are done here you know certain tricks of the trade and you are prepared for the real world and a job," said Julian.

For the past two years he has worked with David Loawd, head of the art department, and instructors in the printing and graphic arts programs.

Zoe said she knew right away she wanted to major in fine arts and graphic design at the tech school.

"By junior year you really have to choose. If you don't, then it's really a rush to finish everything needed for your certificate," she said.

The addition of instructor Susan Rogers to the school's arts program has been a real plus to the two aspiring artists. Ms. Rogers has a degree in fine arts education and has helped students in the basics as well as more advanced and challenging artistic projects.

Recently, Ms. Rogers took her studio art class to the Addison Gallery of American Art at Phillips Academy to view the work of an acclaimed African-American artist who painted about his own experiences. The artist's paintings were beneficial.

for the GLTHS students to see, said Ms. Rogers, because they showed the students, many of whom are minority people, that they could achieve as well.

"Many of the students had never been to an art museum," said Ms. Rogers.

She said many people, especially kids, think art has to be perfect images of foreign places. Ms. Rogers said her students do better when they draw or paint people and places that are familiar to them or that they feel deeply about.

Ms. Rogers "has really helped us to put together a portfolio. We'll need that to apply to schools," said Zoe.

Currently the two are working on their academic and arts classes as well as applying for co-op jobs. To be eligible they have to maintain good grades and attendance.

"It really is an incentive to do well and work harder," Julian said.

Survey is on older people

A survey of randomly selected households is taking place in February to determine what area residents need and desire in housing services.

The Joseph R. Mullins Company, owner of the recently renovated Massachusetts Mills community in Lowell, is conducting the study as part of its efforts to address the housing and service needs of older adults in the continuation of historic renovations.

"Needs of older people today differ from those of previous generations and we recognize that what they want in living environments is changing," noted Joseph R. Mullins, president of the company. The survey will be mailed to 5,000 households.

DON'T TAKE IT PERSONALLY

You have a listing appointment with a Realtor who shows up, has a detailed written market analysis prepared, explains all of the great advantages of listing with their company, and then goes through your home with you a room at a time, making some suggestions on ways to present your home to the public looking its very best.

It's the last part that can make some sellers a little uncomfortable. As the suggestions start coming for cosmetic fix-ups, you realize how you have put off all of those "job jar" projects. The suggestions about the cat box, spider webs in the attic, kitchen and bathroom cleanup, or the yard sale approach to clutter removal make you a little defensive. Remember that none of this is personal! Once in a while, we encounter a compulsive housekeeper who has it entirely pulled together, but that's rare. Most of our sellers need a little coaching to make their homes look their best, and providing the coaching is an important part of our jobs. The better your home looks while it's on the market, the more likely it is to sell quickly for top dollar.

Rotary to roast Paul Miller and Bob Macartney March 5

Lawrence Savings Bank President Paul Miller and recently retired retailer Robert (Bob) Macartney are putting themselves on the firing line at the Rotary Club's "Roast, Toast and Boast" testimonial at the Andover Marriott Friday, March 5. Proceeds will benefit the club's community services projects.

"Sure, I'm putting myself in the hot seat, but it's for a worthy cause," said Mr. Miller, who has long associated himself with community needs.

He was the 1992 Merrimack Valley United Way campaign chairman, is a director of the Lawrence Boys and Girls Club and the Lawrence Family Development and Education Fund and treasurer of the Lone Tree Boy Scout Council and the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce. He's been a Rotarian since 1989.

Mr. Macartney is one of the Lawrence Club's most senior members; he's been meeting with fellow Rotarians each week since September 1950. Holding a near-perfect attendance record, the past president was selected Rotarian of the Year and a Paul Harris Fellow.

Mr. Macartney and his brother, Gardner (Tom), retired their family business this year. The R.J. Macartney retail shop was an Essex Street, Lawrence, landmark since 1880. The Andover shop opened in 1954. Mr. Macartney is still active in local real estate and wood products businesses.

He has held leadership roles in Chamber of Commerce, Family Service, Red Cross, YMCA, Holy Family Hospital Finance Committee, United Way, American Heart Association, Menswear Retail Association of America and three local banks.

Insurance and real estate agent John McCoy and insurance company president Connie McCarthy will be the "friendly" roasters of Mr. Macartney.

Fanning the flames under Mr. Miller will be fellow bank president Len Wilson of first Essex Savings Bank, Lawrence Savings Bank Vice President Bob Perreault and a representative from the Boy Scouts Council.

Among the many organizations that have benefited over the years by the Lawrence Rotary Club's community service projects are the Lawrence Community Boating Program, Samaritans, Day Break Shelter, Lazarus House, the Boys and Girls Club and Lawrence General Hospital. The club is accepting applications to award its 1993 grants. Also, the club awards at least three scholarships each year to area students.

For ticket information, call club president Ron Hill at Baystate Financial Services, 475-9212, or Julius Emmert of Julius B. Emmert & Sons, Lawrence, 682-2948.

Let them eat free grand marnier cake

La Patisserie, 63 Park St., has seen a steady increase in sales over the last few months.

In appreciation for the support of the community, the bakery will offer free slices of its award-winning strawberry grand marnier cake to customers during Retail Bakers' Week, Feb. 21-27.

"This has everything to do with showing the town of Andover our thanks," said La Patisserie Marketing Director Derek Gerry.

New business: Browsers are welcome Antique shop opens here

By Don Staruk

"Browsers welcome."

That's the message Anne Elovecky wants to deliver about Barnard Street Antiques and Collectibles, her new shop at 17 Barnard St.

"It's mainly collectibles. It's not really antiques," she said, while showing a visitor around last Thursday. "On the card I put 'Victorian' and 'country.' I think I'll be a little bit of everything, depending what I find."

Ms. Elovecky lived in Florida for the last 20 years. She said it's easier to find items for sale in Florida because people don't have cellars and attics in which they can store items.

She moved to Andover last year, after her husband died, to live with her daughter, Mary Yeager, at 383 North Main St., and her grandson, John, a student at Doherty Middle School. But she has always worked and was itching to do something. She has always collected things, so opening the shop seemed like a good idea.

"I've always wanted to do it," she said. "I like old stuff, that's all."

Ms. Elovecky was born near Glasgow, Scotland, and still has many relatives there and in England. Her brother lives in the north of England near a town called Barnard Castle, which she has visited, and a postcard she has shows the market place there and the old butter market. When she saw the space available on Barnard Street, it seemed perfect for her shop.

"That's how I chose 'Barnard Street Antiques,'" she said.

Her wares are in four rooms on two floors. They include old linens, Victorian wooden tables, benches and innumerable odd items. The collectibles include 1960s love beads, a '40s pearl sweater collar, stuffed pillows, dolls and prints.

She had a variety of old china and, of course, English tea settings. Her British background and interest will definitely have an influence on the shop, as she intends to bring in many of those type items.

"As many as I can," she said.

Ms. Elovecky is interested in the origins of her pieces, but can't always identify them.

"I try to, but sometimes you can't find anything about it," she said.

She has a repaired wooden fireman's chair and a cast-iron crib that dates to the early 1900s.

"I know a man who is 66 and used that crib. And it was old then," she said.

She does have some consignment pieces but prefers to buy items outright. She has collected for many years and will continue to go out and look for goods to sell, but people also bring in items for her to buy.

"I have a variety of stuff," she said "It's junk to some people."

She has a "primitive country piece," an old handmade wooden cabinet that still has the original "pumpkin paint." Another of her favorites is a Rand McNally globe that was made prior to 1915.

"I don't know a lot about anything. I just like the idea of looking and getting."

Her shop is set up for somebody looking for just a little something special, she said.

"Somebody that wants the old piece to decorate a corner or decorate a shelf."

And remember - "Browsers welcome," she said.

One of 16 employment boards in Massachusetts and overseeing regional workforce development, LMVREB's jurisdiction stretches from Lawrence to Newburyport encompassing the 15 cities

During the period for which it was cited, LMVREB utilized federal job training money to fund more than 25 programs ranging from preparing high school dropouts for GEDs to training technical and administrative professionals. LMVREB is headquartered in Lawrence with a satellite office in Haverhill.

Among the successes the Regional Employment Board achieved was having 81 percent of the graduates of occupational training programs find employment. This was the highest performance level in the commonwealth and occurred during a period when regional unemployment exceeded 10 percent.

SCHOOLS

Pike artists paint in the Johnson style, exhibit their work

Several student artists from Pike School have their work on display at Andover Bank on Main Street. Paintings from youngsters in prekindergarten through grade 5 are on exhibit.

These lower and middle schoolers are students of art teacher Cynthia Velishka, who introduced them to the works of William H. Johnson. This 20th-century artist, whose paintings are on display in a retrospective exhibit at the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy, painted in a primitive style. His work is characterized by bold colors, high contrast, dark outlines and quilt-like patterning.

All students through grade 5 at Pike have become acquainted with Mr. Johnson's work through a visit to the Addison, examining the exhibit catalog and seeing a video. They have discussed art work in the children's book L'il Sis, which Mr. Johnson illustrated.

Mr. Johnson's exhibit, entitled "Homecoming," depicts family scenes. The Pike artists were asked to do the same. Instead of copying a painting of Mr. Johnson's students were asked to respond to his works. They, too, have painted relatives or family scenes, using the style of this African-American artist.

"This has been a wonderful way to buy into the artist's work and life," said Mrs. Velishka. "Students look and learn with a sense of purpose when they are doing their own piece of art work."

The Pike exhibit will hang at the Andover Bank until the exhibit closes Sunday, March 14.

Andover public schools has registration times

Andover public school officials have announced kindergarten and grade 1 registration times and dates.

Kindergarten registration is for children who will be 5 years old by Sept. 1, 1993. Children who will be enrolling in first grade in September as a transfer from another school district or private school should also register. Registration packets will be mailed the week of March 8 to parents from the office of Eileen Woods, assistant superintendent of schools.

Registration will take place from 7 to 8 p.m.

Where and when:

Shawsheen School, Ann's Lane, Monday, April 26;

Sanborn School, Lovejoy Road, Tuesday, April 27;

South School, Woburn Street, Wednesday, April 28;

West Elementary School, Beacon Street, Thursday, April 29;

Bancroft School, Bancroft Road, Monday, May 3.

School administrators ask that parents do not bring children.

Plan to arrive promptly at 7 p.m.

At that time completed registration forms and required documents listed below will be reviewed. At 7:30 p.m. there will be a large group informational session with staff introductions and descriptions of the orientation/screening program, followed by a tour of the school.

P.T.O. parent volunteers will be present to answer questions. They will ask parents to fill out volunteer forms and hope to find parents willing to work on the P.T.O. board.

Documents needed: Immunization records, lead screening results and birth certificate. It would be helpful if parents also brought child development information (e.g., baby books).

Parents will receive a schedule of screening/orientation activities.

"Learning About Shawsheen Evening," scheduled for March 4, has been postponed and will be rescheduled prior to kindergarten registration dates.

Shawsheen Extended Day registering for September

Shawsheen Extended Day (SHED) is preparing to register for September. Entering its ninth year, SHED provides extended-day child care for Andover's kindergarten-aged children. SHED is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.; parents may choose among three time slots and have the option of choosing three, four or five days. Children need not attend Shawsheen School to utilize SHED, although if parents choose Shawsheen School, children can be walked to and from kindergarten rather than bused to and from their neighborhoods.

Registration will be held Saturday, April 3, in the Shawsheen School gymnasium on a first-come, first-served basis.

Numbers will be handed out at 8 a.m.; parents should return between 9 and 10 a.m. to register, which will take about 10-15 minutes.

A $35 non-refundable registration fee is required at the time of registration.

For more information about SHED or registration, call Sydney Bialo at 470-3556.

Kid's Club is a before- and after-school program for first through fifth graders. The number of children in Kid's Club is dependent upon the availability of space in Shawsheen School. During May, SHED will re-register children already enrolled in Kid's Club and kindergartners in SHED who will need Kid's Club for first grade. If space is available, Kid's Club will contact those on the waiting list.

For more information about Kid's Club or to be placed on the waiting list, call Linda Shottes at 474-1817 or Mr. Bialo.

Here's West Middle's Western Stars for second term

Student delegates convene, meet with Rep. Gary Coon at Statehouse

Student delegates from across the Commonwealth recently convened at the Statehouse for the 46th annual Student Government Day. Lt. Gov. A. Paul Cellucci and State Treasurer Joseph Malone greeted the delegates as they began the first of two event-filled days.

Students took on the roles of the state's elected and constitutional officials. Committee hearings were held on various pieces of legislation, which will be debated on a later date. A glass-bowl drawing was used to assign the elected and constitutional positions to the delegates. Kate Parker of Andover was "elected" state senator along with alternate delegate Bernadett Vasda, also of Andover. Lawrence delegate Brian Henderson and alternate delegate Ok-Sun Lee will take on the role of state representative.

During a lunch break the Lawrence and Andover delegates and adviser Annette Burba visited with Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover.

After showing the students his office, Rep. Coon answered questions on the legislative process while taking the students on a Statehouse tour, including stops at the governor's office and Sen. John O'Brien's office.

"This is a great opportunity for students to become more knowledgeable about the legislative process," he said.

The delegation recessed to meet next on Friday, April 2.

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

ACHIEVING BALANCE

The most common source of pain in the body's structural system is usually a problem in the spine. Whether it is caused by accident, aging, overuse or misuse, a spinal problem can be aggravated by spinal imbalances and stressful patterns of alignment. The chiropractor's main goal in such cases is to remove imbalances and correct alignment so that the spine can assume its proper positioning. Unless the spine is straight and balanced from right to left, it will be prone to experiencing pain. This is also the case when there are marked increases in the mild natural curvatures (cervical, thoracic, and lumbar) from front to back. By aligning the spine along the lines of its ideal form, the chiropractor improves its efficiency and minimizes wear and tear as a factor in pain production.

The manual adjustments we use are safe, gentle and recommended for all ages from infants to seniors and even pregnant women. For compassionate and professional care, please call DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our personal concern is your health! Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Postural adjustment exercises help patients maintain healthy, upright bearings.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

THE DENTAL IMPLANT

For those patients who are missing teeth, dental implants offer replacement teeth that are both natural looking and permanent. Unlike dentures, dental implants neither become loose nor have to be removed. Instead, they are firmly rooted to the jawbone by virtue of metal anchors. Good candidates for dental implants have adequately dense jawbone and healthy gums to accept the metal anchors. Once the anchors are set into the bone, it takes an average six months for the jawbone to integrate the metal into its own structure and for the gums to heal. After this time, abutment (metal interface between anchor and prosthesis) is set into the anchor and a replacement tooth (or teeth) is attached to it. The result is a tooth replacement that looks and feels as natural as the original.

If you would like more information on this innovative dental technique, or if you have other questions about teeth and gums, we invite your call. We provide complete dental services including cosmetic & preventive dentistry. For gentle, dental care for everyone in your family, call us at 475-2431, 298 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. Office hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6, and by appointment. Service includes implants, dentures, cosmetic dentistry, sealants, crowns and bridges, etc. P.S. The lower jaw is the most common site for dental implants.

Two weekends of recitals, concerts coming up at PA

The Phillips Academy Music Department will present the George Frideric Handel oratorio, Israel in Egypt, Friday, March 5, in Cochran Chapel on Chapel Avenue. The performance will feature the Phillips Academy Cantata Choir and Chamber Orchestra under the direction of William Thomas.

The first part of Israel in Egypt tells the story of the Israelites' release from bondage in Egypt. The music describes the burdens of the Israelites, the plagues that were inflicted upon the Egyptians, which ultimately led to Pharaoh releasing the Israelites, and their escape from the Egyptians by passing through the Red Sea. The second part recounts the miracle of their liberation.

When Israel was in Egypt's land, Let my people go,

Oppressed so hard they could not stand, Let my people go.

Go down, Moses, Way down in Egypt's land,

Tell old Pharaoh, To let my people go.

The overture will include several Negro spirituals. The story of the Jews' captivity by the hand of the Egyptians and their delivery from slavery was a source of inspiration and solace to the African-American. As they bore the yoke of bondage, the notions of "freedom" and the "promise land" were ideas that inspired personal courage and spiritual commitment.

The featured soloists are Laura Bewig, soprano; Pamela Dillard, mezzo-soprano; Gregory Jackson, tenor; Lester Lynch, bass-baritone; and Santo Cataudella, bass.

Ms. Bewig, a senior at UMass Amherst, is a 1987 graduate of Phillips Academy. A student of Paulina Stark, Ms. Bewig is presenting a recital at Phillips Academy Saturday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Timken Recital Room at Graves Hall. [See related story].

Ms. Dillard, a semifinalist in the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, made her debut with the Boston Symphony Orchestra as Masha in Tchaikovsky's Pique Dame and as a soloist in Beethoven's Choral Fantasy. She debuted with the Boston Lyric Opera in the role of Irina in Kurt Weill's Lost in the Stars in January 1992, and is currently performing with the Boston Lyric Opera and the Handel & Haydn Society. A graduate of Tulane and Boston universities, Ms. Dillard is the recipient of several awards, including a 1992 Richard Gaddes Fund Career Award, second prize winner in both the 1989 National Leontyne Price Vocal Arts Competition and the 1987 James Oglethorpe Patterson Fine Arts Scholarship Awards, a Thomas J. Watson Fellowship and the Martin Luther King Graduate Fellowship at Boston University.

Mr. Jackson, a graduate of Adelphi University in Garden City, L.I., and the University of Lowell, holds a master's degree in vocal performance. He has appeared as soloist most recently in

Andover Historical Society planning annual Memorial Lecture

The Andover Historical Society will hold its annual Memorial Lecture Wednesday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall of Memorial Hall Library. The "Writings of Elizabeth Stuart Phelps" will be dramatized by storyteller Susan Lenoe.

The Andover Historical Society established the Memorial Fund in 1980 for the purpose of recognizing its deceased members and friends who have generously supported the efforts of this organization.

Traditionally, these individuals are acknowledged during the Memorial Lecture and their names inscribed in the Remembrance Book.

The 13th annual Memorial Lecture is presented in memory of Joel Claydon, Mildred Custer, Leo F. Daley, Dorothy Emmons, Ruth Godfrey, Robert H. Lange, Rose Le Maitre, Lois M. Lyman, Mervyn Manning, A. Reginald Mortimer, L. Evelyn Parker, Miles S. Pendleton, Martha B. Rogers and John G. Whitham.

The subject of the lecture was chosen because Elizabeth Stuart Phelps was a 19-century Andover author of 57 novels, hundreds of short stories and magazine articles, an autobiography and numerous poems, many with topics very relevant today.

The Andover Historical Society invites the public to this lecture. Refreshments will be served.

Members honor Quotations

Seven "Quotations" were honored Feb. 15 at a dinner meeting of the Greater Lawrence Quota Club at Bishops Restaurant. Quotations are non-members who volunteer to help the Quota Club in its fund-raisers and projects. Each Quotation was mildly roasted and given a certificate of appreciation by their sponsor. The Quota Club raises funds for various community service projects with a focus on helping the hearing impaired. This year's Quotations are Tammy Branca of Sandown, N.H.; Mary Kamitian of Merrimack; Gerrienne Samowski of Salem, N.H.; Patricia Trovato of Windham, N.H.; David Murphy of Methuen; and Tiffany Clement and Joel Rubin, both of Lawrence.

Gravestones lecture is Wednesday

The North Andover Historical Society will begin its spring series of forum lectures Wednesday, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. with a slide lecture by Donna LaRue titled "Stones and Sites Related to the Puritan Persecutions of 1692." Ms. LaRue, an independent researcher and lecturer on gravestone art and the burying ground as historical artifact, focused her latest study on the legacy of the witch trials of 1692. Her presentation will address the physical remains of gravestones and sites within the affected communities as well as the "missing pieces," stones that cannot be found or never existed. Ms. LaRue will compare the original stones and commemorative monuments erected during the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries, the use of local versus trained carvers and the differing scale and style of the memorials.

The annual forum series serves as a prelude to the 350th anniversary celebration scheduled for 1996. Ms. LaRue has documented evidence from North Andover's First Burial Ground on Academy Road, which is featured in her presentation.

Future programs will include "The Acadian Connection" on March 31 and "Archeology of the Merrimack Valley" on April 28.

The lecture will be held at the Old Center Hall at 3 Great Pond Road. Admission is $1, free for current North Andover Historical Society members. Refreshments will be served.

TOWN ELECTION CANDIDATES

Norma L. Villarreal

ship. The Mother Connection, member of the advisory board and president 1989 to 1991, Democratic Town Committee, Shawsheen PTO, Andover Community Childcare Center Parent Advisory Board and St. Augustine's Children's Liturgy Committee.

"As a candidate for the Andover Housing Authority, two issues which I would strongly support are the following: 1. an increase in moderate-income family housing distributed throughout the community, including programs that encourage self-sufficiency for tenants, and, 2. the modernization of existing housing units for the elderly and moderate-income families. The Andover Housing Authority should continue to expand its moderate-income housing through innovative practices such as the recent acquisition of 25 Section 8 vouchers. These new vouchers subsidize the cost of housing for qualified tenants, to locate their own rental housing throughout the community. However, these new certificates are targeted to individuals or families seeking an opportunity to become self-sufficient. The certificates are valid for up to a five-year period in which the voucher recipients are encouraged to pursue educational and other advancement goals. This Section 8 program is an example of support programs that enable the recipients to become independent members of the community.

"Modernization of the Andover housing units, built from 10 to 40 years ago, is a fiscally responsible investment in existing buildings. We must maintain these investments and ensure the exterior and interior integrity of these dwellings. Modernization also ensures that the tenants are residing in housing that conforms with community standards.

"I believe that I have the demonstrated commitment to the community, the time to devote to the position and the practical legal skills of a trained attorney. I would be honored to serve on the board of the Andover Housing Authority.

Michael L. Zimmer

Name: Michael L. Zimmer.

Address: 16 Balmoral St., #102.

Age: 41.

Education: University of Massachusetts, Amherst, bachelor of arts in psychology, 1976, Northeastern University, Boston, master of science in accounting, 1978.

Occupation: Health-care reimbursement consultant (partner in firm).

Certifications/professional affiliations: Certified cost analyst, Institute of Cost Analysis, 1985.

Certified internal auditor, Institute of Internal Auditors, 1984.

Associate member, Association of Massachusetts Homes for the Aged.

Community activities: Treasurer, Balmoral Condominium Association; member, Elderly Housing Task Force, Merrimack Valley United Jewish Communities; vice president, Bread & Roses Heritage Labor Day Festival; treasurer, Andover Democratic Town Committee.

"I think that one key issue facing the Andover Housing Authority is continuation of a modernization preventive maintenance program for the existing public housing. Two of the oldest sections of housing, Chestnut Court and Grandview Terrace, date back to 1959 and 1969, respectively, and the family housing dates back to 1948. In order to maintain these units, an appropriate preventive-maintenance program should be followed to extend the life of existing housing stock and when necessary, modernization to replace outdated and/or inefficient components. One major accomplishment of the AHA during 1992 was completion of a three-phase modernization program which included significant changes to the kitchen, bathroom and electrical components of the 56 family housing units. In addition, at its meeting on Feb. 18, 1993, the AHA adopted a formal preventative maintenance program to ensure that existing units will receive the necessary attention to prolong their useful lives.

"The second major issue facing the AHA will be meeting the challenge of possible expansion of programs for housing to meet the increased demand for affordable housing for low- and moderate-income families. While the waiting list for elderly housing is relatively short, the waiting list for section 8 vouchers or certificates, currently at 400 people, has been closed. The AHA was recently one of very few local housing authorities to receive 25 new section 8 vouchers, but these vouchers only begin to address the current needs. Furthermore, these vouchers, for the first time, carry a five-year expiration date. During that time, the AHA will have the additional task of trying to assist families and individuals to upgrade skills and education so that, by the end of the five-year period, the vouchers will be unnecessary and the family will be self-sufficient. This difficult task must be accomplished using the same funding amount as the existing section 8 certificates, a significant challenge for the AHA executive director and staff. It is expected that all future housing certificates will carry a similar time restriction.

Town Moderator

James D. Doherty

Name: James D. Doherty (incumbent).

Address: 9 Juniper Road.

Age: 77.

Education: St. Augustine's School, 1929; Punchard High School, 1933; Boston College, AB, 1937.

Occupation: Insurance and real estate broker in family business since 1937.

Community activities: Election officer for 40 years; precinct warden for 30 years; moderator for 15 years; playground supervisor, 1934-1952; chairman of Town Recreation Committee, 1953-1962; member of Land Acquisition Committee, 1960s; chairman of Insurance Advisory Comm. 1960s; former trustee, Merrimack College; received Community Service Award, Andover Chamber of Commerce, and Lord Baden Powell Award, Boy Scouts of America; author, Andover As I Remember it.

"I have been asked to answer the question, 'Why would I be the better town moderator?' My first reaction is that I think that question has to be answered by the voters. I am willing to stand on my record. I have tried to preserve the open meeting tradition and keep people interested in their government. I have tried to treat everyone fairly at all times, even when some would hold the system hostage to satisfy their own whims. I feel that such tactics turn off most voters and endangers the life of our open meeting system.

"In short, for about 15 years I have tried to regulate the town meeting in the finest tradition of my many distinguished predecessors. Andover has a tradition of excellence and I wish to keep it that way. I will not speculate concerning anyone else."

Occupation: Modelmaker.

Community activities: Artist, photographer, aviation writer, commercial pilot, aircraft designer, constructor; past president, M.V.A.S.

James Doherty

"I firmly believe in the open town meeting concept, with the premise that the voters are the supreme governmental authority. Our open town meeting is now in a very unhealthy condition. Voter authority has been reduced to rubber-stamp status, chiefly by a moderatorship which has been massively facilitating officially-initiated policy. Dictatorship, rigged procedures and trickery prevail.

"Incumbent Doherty's 'bag of tricks' has swollen considerably during his overly long term in office, including, but not limited to the following:

- Voters seldom understand the measures upon which they vote, depending almost entirely on recommendations of officials who, by prearrangement, have been given the floor by incumbent Doherty in accordance with a "script" known only to officials.

- Selected "stooges," on signal, "move the question," ending discussion prematurely and rushing the vote. Citizen-sponsored articles, unwanted by officialdom, are regularly disposed of by this method. Particularly scorned by incumbent Doherty are measures seeking to establish consistent procedures for town meeting; he considers them "affronts" to himself, wanting only rules of his own invention, ad libitum.

- Extremely serious are numerous votes taken in reckless violation of state law.

- The intimidation of voters into silence and nonparticipation is accomplished by incumbent Doherty's practice of provoking arguments between himself and selected voters, ending, of course, with his ruling someone "out of order," or worse.

- He paces the meeting by arbitrarily controlling the time he allows speakers to hold the floor.

- There are, in addition, the time-wasting, self-aggrandizing political speeches and stale wisecracks.

I would practice none of these improprieties. Properly, the moderator is the people's closest representative - their advocate - who should conduct town meeting with the utmost fairness and with scrupulous impartiality. By guaranteeing unfettered voter participation, a new enthusiasm for open town meeting will be generated in our town of Andover."

John Doyle

Next week, the Townsmen will run profiles on other candidates running in the March 22 Town Election. The League also is planning a candidates' night to be held Thursday, March 18, at Memorial Hall Library.

Rizzo charged with stealing from Tsongas campaign

Tsongas campaign and that he obtained illegal loans from businessmen, two Andover banks and five other banks by falsely representing his income.

Fred Stott, of 4 Robandy Road, raised money for Mr. Tsongas in Andover and worked with Mr. Rizzo on several occasions.

"I know nothing of the legal problems he is going through right now, but I did sit down and write him a letter (Tuesday).

"I pass absolutely no judgment on him. That is for the courts to work out. At this time of distress I wanted to register my kinship and friendship," Mr. Stott said.

Mr. Rizzo and his wife, Maria A. Rizzo, have lived in their Hemlock Road home, in a modest neighborhood off Lowell Street, for about 20 years. The couple have six adult children. According to several neighbors, the Rizzos do not socialize frequently within their immediate neighborhood. One neighbor, who has lived near the Rizzos for 20 years, said she knows the Rizzos only "well enough to wave to."

Another neighbor, Barbara Collins of 28 Hemlock Road, has lived next to the Rizzos for eight years.

"He never seemed pleasant or happy," she said.

Mr. Rizzo has been a prominent fundraiser for the Democratic party on state and national levels for the past two decades. He is the former assistant treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and his connection with Mr. Tsongas dates back to 1974 when he raised money for Mr. Tsongas' successful bid for U.S. Congress.

Mr. Rizzo was the national director of fundraising for the Carter-Mondale campaign in the late '70s. He also has raised money for gubernatorial candidates Evelyn Murphy and John Silbur.

Mr. Rizzo is a Lawrence native who has served as the president of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

According to the US attorney's office in Boston, Mr. Rizzo "used his experience and position as fundraising chairman to defraud Tsongas, the Tsongas campaign committee, and various contributors to the campaign, of approximately $1,052,000." He did this by allegedly soliciting funds he said were for the campaign and then spending them personally, according to the US attorney's office.

In a written statement released Monday, John Pappalardo, US attorney, said the charges against Mr. Rizzo represent "the largest case of campaign fraud in history."

Democrats know him well

If you were involved in Merrimack

Valley or state politics, "You couldn't not know Nick," said Susan Tucker, of Farrwood Drive, former Democratic state representative. "He supported so many good causes. He worked tirelessly on issues that were important to Greater Lawrence.

"This case has a personal dimension and there are a lot of people in pain," she continued. "But, I think the bigger issue that the public can relate to is that the link between money and power in politics is too tight. The system is constantly ripe for personal and special-interest manipulation. Everyone loses, the public loses, the king-makers lose and the candidates lose."

The Townsmen contacted several other local politicians but the majority declined to comment. Almost all said they prefer to see the case unfold in the courts before commenting.

The indictment alleges that Mr. Rizzo used some of the money he took from the Tsongas campaign to pay off fraudulently obtained bank loans. Prosecutors charge that part of the money went to pay off illegal gambling debts to bookies and debts to "casinos throughout North America, and personal expenses, such as women's clothing and the cost of visiting an adult entertainment center."

But Mr. Rizzo's lawyer said the government has embellished its reports of how much money is in question.

"More than half of what they refer to are Nick's legitimate business loans," Mr. Manzi said. "In the indictment, the amount of campaign contributions in question is $185,000.

"They think they have a high-profile case because it was a presidential campaign. They are trying to get as much political mileage as possible," said the lawyer.

Indictment charges

The indictment charges that Mr. Rizzo's scheme to defraud the Tsongas campaign consist of the following actions:

- He stole $155,000 of $181,000 in campaign donations that he solicited and deposited in a clandestine account at Andover Bank.

- He concealed the account and deprived the campaign of federal matching funds it would have been eligible for.

- He doubled-billed the campaign for $77,000 worth of personal expenses.

- He caused his daughter, Carla Degnan, who had authority to sign Tsongas campaign checks, to write him a check for $42,000 in January 1992.

The indictment also alleges that Mr. Rizzo misrepresented his income and assets to seven banks in the state, including Andover Bank and BayBank Middlesex, and obtained $2.9 million in loans. The indictment also alleges that Mr. Rizzo secured $794,000 in loans from area businessmen, that he misrepresented to the businessmen that the money was for the Tsongas campaign and would be repaid.

Under the terms of his bail, Mr. Rizzo was ordered to turn over his passport and any guns he may own. He has to report his whereabouts to court officials every Wednesday and restrict his travel to Massachusetts, except for necessary business trips.

Mr. Rizzo was hospitalized earlier this year for a heart and blood pressure condition. Wednesday, his lawyer said Mr. Rizzo is "all right and doing as well as can be expected."

If convicted on all counts, Mr. Rizzo may face a maximum of 346 years in prison and up to $14 million in fines. The government is seeking $3.93 million from Mr. Rizzo, including his Hemlock Road home and his office condominium at 1 Elm Square.

Defense motions in the case are due March 22, but no court date has been scheduled, said Mr. Manzi.

Health officials work to educate kids about rabies

By Lisa Boudreau

Reports of rabid wildlife in surrounding communities have motivated health officials in Andover to join forces with local veterinarians to bring a bite prevention program to the town's public elementary schools.

Everett Penney, the town's health director; Martha Lindsay, a veterinarian at the Andover Animal Hospital; and Wayne Nader, the animal control officer, plan to visit the four elementary schools this winter and spring and teach students how they can protect themselves from being bitten by wild animals and domesticated pets.

"We think the children can be an effective part of our rabies prevention program," said Mr. Penney.

"We want to let them know that there are things they can do to protect themselves."

The presentation will include a short video to entertain and educate the children, followed by a question and answer session.

To lessen the chance that children and family pets will encounter raccoons and other wildlife, household trash should be stored in a garage or in heavy, sealed garbage cans, said Dr. Lindsay.

"Raccoons are very dexterous. They can open trash cans very easily if they aren't sealed tightly," she said.

If children are approached by a dog, she said they should stand still and keep their hands crossed over their chest. Inquisitive dogs will most likely sniff a person, lose interest and go away.

"Children especially shouldn't run, because most dogs can easily out run people. When you run, (dogs) think you are playing and they will chase you," Dr. Lindsay said.

the Town Democratic Committee, is senior assistant to U.S. Rep. Martin Meehan, D-Lowell.

Mr. LaRochelle and Mr. Meehan were waiting Monday at Logan Airport for the congressman's flight to Washington, when they were invited by the first lady to join her in one of the airport's VIP lounges.

Ms. Clinton and U.S. Senator Edward Kennedy had just returned from Bunker Hill Community College where they held a health forum. Ms. Clinton is in charge of the president's task force on health-care reform.

"She was sitting there all by herself having a cup of tea. She was very gracious," said Mr. LaRochelle.

Ms. Gore joined the group and the two women asked Rep. Meehan about the town meetings he has held in his district.

"They were impressed that Representative Meehan had held 10 town meetings in the past four weeks. They wanted to know what people in his district had to say about local issues and their opinions on the president's economic plan," said Mr. LaRochelle.

'They were impressed that Representative Meehan had held 10 town meetings in the past four weeks.'

"Hillary was very complimentary. She said she was impressed that Marty is out in the communities and getting input, rather than hanging out in Washington," he said.

Mr. LaRochelle said he's met a lot of politicians in his work on local and state Democratic campaigns, but the first lady impressed him because she was "very down to earth and level-headed."

She was informal, said Mr. LaRochelle. She even referred to the president simply as "my husband" on several instances.

As Mr. LaRochelle was leaving the airport, the congressman said to him, "That was the best $25 you ever spent, I bet." He was referring to the parking ticket on Mr. LaRochelle's car.

Local woman creates French summer room for spring flower show

By Alix Driscoll

Andover interior designer Wendy Reynolds has created a French summer house room from the days of Marie Antoinette for the 122nd annual New England Flower Show.

The garden room is papered with a trellis pattern, which was popular in the 18th century - a time representing the height of design and formality. The room has limestone floors suggesting antiquity and period chairs. Ms. Reynolds has set white marguerite plants in topiary standards to suggest the formality of the surrounding French garden.

About planning for her summer room, which she describes as a "visual vignette," Ms. Reynolds said, "It was creative to work within a budget, to use my wits, to use design solutions which are elegant and turn a constraint into an advantage."

Ms. Reynolds, owner of Cheever House at 125 Main St., recently designed a room for the Marblehead Show House and will be doing the women's dressing room for the Junior League of Boston at the Westwood Davison Estate in April. She continues to do interior design for residential projects in Andover.

The New England Flower Show opens March 6 through March 14 at the Bayside Exhibition Center in Boston and this year's theme is "through the garden gate."

EDITORIALS

Men and women in business

When the Townsmen published its special section, Women in Business, last October, the staff was pleased with the response of the community: Scores of women were nominated, and many by themselves.

In fact, we believe that section was full of interesting stories about women who work here, or who live here. It was, if you will, an excuse to publish short profiles that made good reading.

So we used the success of that section to launch the one in today's paper: Equal Time: Men in Business.

The stories of the men are as interesting as those of the women. Most of us work and we like to know what others do for a living. One of the goals of this newspaper is to publish as many names and faces as possible, with stories about them.

We found it interesting that the men were more reluctant to nominate themselves than the women before them. Our guess is that women have had to work harder to achieve in business than many men, so advocating for themselves has become part of what women do, comfortably or not.

We also found it interesting that some of the men profiled in the section were nominated by their wives, who called their husbands their "best friend." Men did not nominate their wives for the Women in Business section. If a man nominated a woman for the section, the man was the woman's colleague or her boss.

If the sections cause you to think of a person who would make an interesting profile, send in that person's name, or call the editor, 475-1943, and suggest a story. The Townsmen welcomes readers' suggestions.

We like letters

The editor welcomes readers' letters, which are due Monday at 5 p.m. Include a name, address and phone number. The latter won't be published but may be needed for verification purposes.

R&R Coffee House opened last weekend on Lupine Road and immediately it filled up with young people playing cards and drinking coffee, as well as greeting one another and engaging in conversation. Several checks over the weekend found the new facility crowded with enthusiastic young people.

He remembers growing up here, too

By Richard J. Eldred

I have just finished reading Jim Doherty's book Andover As I Remember It. Four people mentioned in the book brought back memories of my own childhood growing up in Andover.

Mr. Morris Krinsky

Mr. Krinsky is the owner of the "trash & treasure" junk yard, which was formerly run by his father on Park Street.

I was 9 years old in 1941 when Mo tried to teach me to swim at Poms Pond. There were several weeks of the "can preserver" around my waist, which Mo said I didn't need at all and I was sure I would drown without. One morning Mo announced that I could swim and with that he picked me up and threw me from the end of the pier into water that to me was at least 10 feet deep.

Mo kept cheering me on with "Come on kid, you can do it, don't panic," "sink or swim" and with that I was a swimmer.

That day came to mind 11 years later during basic training at U.S. Naval Base, Bainbridge, Md. The final test to pass the swimming class was to jump from a 25-foot high platform into the pool fully clothed, hit the water, dispose of your shoes, remove your dungarees, tie a knot at the bottom of each leg, swing the dungarees from in back up over your head and squeeze the waist together in front of you with one leg under each arm.

In this position, the legs would be full of air and you paddled the length of the pool in a straight line with one hand. As luck would have it, one leg split open from top to bottom when I hit the water, so I struggled along with one half of a life preserver knowing that if I didn't arrive at the end of the pool in required time, I would be back at the top of the 25-foot platform.

The instructor pulled me out of the pool with the greeting, "Nice job kid, you didn't panic."

Thanks, Mo!

Mr. Charles Gregory

Mr. Gregory was acting principal at Pynchard High School while Mr. Lovely was ill. He also taught history and social studies and I was in both of these classes.

One day at lunch time a few of us took the liberty to go down to the old bowling alley on Park Street for a quick game of pool. Twelve-thirty came so quickly we decided to stay through sixth period for another game of pool. We returned to school for seventh period, which was on the field for soccer. Half way through the period, Mr. Gregory came walking across the field. Mr. Dunn, the instructor, just stood there and watched as Mr. Gregory demanded an explanation for the absence during sixth period. I told him the truth and he said, "It's a good thing you didn't lie," and walked away. It was the first, last and only time I skipped anything and it all seemed so easy.

As the time, I worked two days a week after school and Saturdays on the Cushman Bakery truck for Jim Sheard. One customer I always delivered to on Saturday afternoon was Mr. Gregory. The money was always on the kitchen table. Leave the goods and take the money.

On this one Saturday was the command, "Mr. Eldred, come in here." In another room there sat Mr. Gregory with books, books and more books. He handed me one and said, "Read it and I'll ask you about it next Saturday. Goodbye." I took the money and ran from the house.

The next Saturday, he asked me about the History of Genghis Kahn and gave me another book with the same instructions. It was several weeks before I figured out the reading was my punishment and I've been reading ever since.

Thanks, Mr. Gregory!

Racism is ugly

Editor, Townsmen:

Mrs. Singh, in her letter "Don't label them black or white," (2/18) while well meaning, clearly misses the point. The physical scuffle she witnessed at the (Andover High School) assembly was, as she puts it, student vs. student, human vs. human. The pushing and poking in itself was not newsworthy and would never have made the paper regardless of the students' skin color. The issue to be addressed and which should "unnerve" everyone is not the behavior she witnessed but what sparked that behavior. It is important to understand the underlying cause of this confrontation.

The 16-year-old black student (believed) that the white student had been making derogatory comments about black people. Since this had gone on for several weeks, it appeared to the 16-year-old that this student had carte blanche to profess his racism at AHS. Thus, a confrontation ensued. It was later confirmed that the student had, in fact, been using racial slurs and making derogatory remarks.

The issue which we need to concern ourselves with is not the confrontation, but the issue of racism within our schools. Racism is ugly; racism is disgusting. While I am not suggesting that everyone is racist, racism does exist at AHS, it exists in Andover, it exists in America. It is an age-old problem which hasn't been eradicated. To deny its existence is to deny we have a problem. We can only solve problems resultant of racism if we are big enough to acknowledge and confront it. We colude with acts of racism when we deny the existence of racism, when we minimize its effects and when we sweep racists acts under the rug.

Ms. Singh closes her letter by calling upon students at AHS to be united because of their similarities - their "humanness." I agree. However, the realities of our society focuses more on our differences than on our similarities. We delude ourselves if we believe otherwise. We can best function not in a make-believe society but in a society as it exists. Thus, we should celebrate, respect and value our diversity as much as we do our similarities. The opportunity to do this within our schools is missing. It is what leaves students feeling themselves as "attachment to the whole." It is what invalidates their presence.

The incident at AHS, while unfortunate, serves as wake-up call. It says simply, very simply, wake up!

Student has right to remain silent

Editor, Townsmen:

After reading the Townsmen article, your editorial and the letter of Mr. Marshall, Brian's father, I am disturbed at the thought that a great injustice is possibly being done to the boy involved in the incident which took place at the high school. ("AHS copes with fist fight," page 1, Feb. 11.) Although the incident is described in detail in the article, no comments are made and no conclusions drawn about the incident itself.

There are extensive remarks about racial tensions, tragic situations and the need for understanding. All worthwhile, but an evasion of the resolution of the specific event which occurred. First, Brian himself states that he only heard of the other boy's remarks so that there was no direct provocation, only hearsay. Then, by Brian's own description, the other boy seems to have gone quite far in trying to avoid a confrontation.

The boy was tapped, pulled around and poked in the chest without responding. Since he is alleged to have "tripped" while he was being pulled around, it isn't clear whether he did in fact trip, or was thrown down. I don't know anything about this boy's attitudes but whatever they are, he surely has the right to remain silent and not discuss them if that is his choice. What he experienced was an unequivocal provocation, and his finally responding as he did was unfortunate, but a response, not an initiation. The school principal, Mr. Thomas, is undoubtedly more interested in resolving the general problem of racial tensions than he is in dispensing justice in this particular case. Perhaps that is as it should be. I would hope that this boy does not feel hostile towards blacks in general and that he is willing to judge them on their merits, as he ought whites also. But, whatever his feelings on these matters, he has the right to be left alone and when he is clearly confronted and physically abused, this fact should be recognized and he should not be penalized because of it.

Make it easier to recycle

Editor, Townsmen:

I'm looking forward to tomorrow, Feb. 20, with anticipation. It's the day my garage will be cleared of more than 100 tin cans which have been annoying me for about three weeks now. They don't smell because they have been cleaned and scrubbed (no wonder the water rates are rising); they just take up space.

My husband is not looking forward to tomorrow. He spends five days a week fighting traffic jams and thinks he ought to have Saturday mornings free so he can stand in line at the bank.

We, however, are more fortunate than some of our neighbors who elected to vacation this school holiday. They will have to store two months' supply of used cans unless they are willing to rush back from the ski slopes in time to deposit their supplies of crushed steel on schedule.

Don't get me wrong. Recycling is good, necessary, and now it is the law. Andover citizens have been in the vanguard for community action in recycling for many years, but suddenly a law passed months earlier takes us by surprise.

Ideally, curbside pickup for cans would be the most convenient for residents who already take out their glass and paper every two weeks. Apparently this isn't feasible right now. Finding a permanent collection site centrally located would be second choice. The problem here is finding a spot that isn't needed for parking and can be properly maintained to avoid nuisance.

What about our current system twice a month? Even better would be twice a month in two separate locations. Something certainly must be done, because as Virginia Cole says in her Townsmen article of Feb. 18, this is the only way we can legally dispose of our cans now.

Short-term solutions for the traffic and timing problems might include "can pools" when neighbors take turns doing the recycling for several households; opening the center one-half hour earlier so that some folks could drop off their cans before getting on line at the bank, and perhaps some entrepreneurial folks will start neighborhood businesses hauling other people's cans for a fee.

In the meantime, let's hope there will be no blizzard tomorrow.

Do you know about this park?

Editor, Townsmen:

Did you know that the "Inhabitants of the Town of Andover" own a "community park" at the corner of North Main and Lowell streets? I did not, and I'll bet precious few of the "Inhabitants" do, either. Nor did most know that the deed from Cornelius and Muriel Wood stipulates that it is to "be known and kept in perpetuity as the William M. Wood Memorial Park." (See attached copy of the deed as registered at Essex North District Registry of deeds, Book #736, Page 556.)

Now that we all know that this park is there for our use, as a "community park," can't we get the town administration to invest a few dollars in a suitable sign presenting the name of the park and informing everyone of its

Some fond memories of growing up in Andover

Donald Dunn, James Bissett

I never could score a basket when we played basketball in gym class. At 5'7", 112 pounds, there was no way I could get the ball anywhere near the basket. One day our teacher, Mr. Dunn, noticed me throwing from way outside the circle with nobody near me and getting it in. He kept after me to practice when I was alone. With Mr. Bissett at the Andover Guild on Brook Street, it took about a month and I had it down pat. Get the ball, run away from the basket, make a half-turn to the left, arm up over my head, shoot long and high and swish - two points. Mr. Dunn would scream with joy.

Running away from the basket at first earned me a "wrong way Corrigan" nickname, but for me it worked. Of course, professional players today get three points and $2 million or more for the same thing. Where did I go wrong?

Anyway, thanks, Mr. Dunn and Mr. Bissett!

In a way, our paths crossed again as adults. Mr. Dunn, a commander in the Naval Reserve, was activated for the Korean War and was stationed at New Orleans. After basic training I was assigned to the battleship U.S.S. Missouri, BB63, and went on a 10-month tour of duty to Korea. A shipmate on board the Missouri named Donald LaFrance from New Orleans knew Mr. Dunn from reserve training.

In a side note, Mr. Dunn's daughter, Dawn, my wife, Shirley (Pilgrim) Eldred, and myself graduated from Punchard High School, class of 1950.

I guess as a child one really never knows what answers to life's questions will be handed to you. Thanks to the wisdom of my elders and a lifetime to think back on the important people, I can share my "life's lessons" and hope someone today can use them to mold others lives.

It's a small but interesting world and if you know how to swim, read good books and risk going for the long shot, you'll find it's truly a lot more fun.

Richard Eldred, born in Andover, and a 1950 graduate of Punchard High School, is an electronics technician at the Smithsonian Institute in Cambridge, where he has worked 30 years.

Pushing for campaign reform

Editor, Townsmen:

Common Cause has asked me to remind you of the Campaign Finance Reform that was vetoed by President Bush.

Representative Martin Meehan, D-Lowell, the new member of Congress from our district, made a public commitment during the 1992 campaign to vote for major change in the campaign finance system and reduce the power of political influence money in Washington.

Rep. Martin Meehan is one of a majority of members of the new House and Senate who are publicly on record for campaign finance legislation that contains all the essential elements of real reform. In addition, President Clinton has publicly supported reform of the campaign finance system.

Nevertheless, many Washington insiders are already working to keep the current corrupt campaign finance system in place. If Rep. Martin Meehan's commitment for change is to be turned into real campaign reform, it is essential that he work for quick passage of a tough bill that includes all of the elements of reform included in his campaign pledge and that he work to ensure that the House of Representatives act immediately at the outset of the new Congress. Any delays in considering this legislation will only play into the hands of the Washington lobbyists, special interest PACs and congressional opponents who are out to kill or gut real campaign finance reform.

I am one of the millions of Americans who are looking for fundamental change in the way business is done in Washington. It's time to turn campaign commitments into real reform. Rep. Martin Meehan, don't disappoint us.

It would be very much appreciated if you would bring to the attention of your readers the importance of a commitment to support real campaign finance reform.

SPORTS

Marshall and Sherry are top scores for AHS ski teams

By Rick Harrison

Alex Marshall and Colleen Sherry were the top scorers during the regular season for the Andover High boys and girls varsity ski teams.

Both AHS squads competed in the North Shore League Inter-scholastic Meet on Tuesday at Bradford Hill, and the boys team will wrap up its championship season next Tuesday, March 2 in the State Meet at Berkshire East in Charlmont.

Individual scoring

Alex Marshall scored 166 points and Nate Mullett 165 in 14 meets to pace the well-balanced Andover boys, who finished 13-1 as North Shore League co-champs with perennial powerhouse St. John's Prep.

It was the first title for the AHS skiers since 1984.

Although the two teams had identical won-lost records, splitting their two head-to-head meets, Andover outscored SJP 1,565 to 1,440 in the 14 races.

Bill Schofield was third in AHS scoring with 143 points, followed in order by Mark Edwards (128), Greg Mercer (114), Jesse Lugas (97), Dave Poulo (94.5), Rich DeAngelous (59), Glenn Aeder (54), Adam Westaway (51.5), Steve Li (49), Jeff Shea (32), Derek DeAngelous (28.5), Andy McDonald (26) and Mike McCarthy (24).

Andover's Brendan Finneran named All-Conference

Andover resident Brendan Finneran, a senior at Central Catholic, has been named a second team All-Conference defenseman on the 1992-93 Merrimack Valley League All-Star hockey team.

Finneran was one of 10 players and only four defensemen selected for the second team. He was also the lone Central Catholic player chosen.

For the Lady Warriors, who finished 7-3-0 for third place in their division of the NSL, Colleen Sherry amassed 148 points and Amanda Grasso 134 in the 10 meets.

Next in line were Emily Winters (89), Kirsten Nowell (86), Christine Durant (84), Jen Prudden (71), Ashley Nowell (54), Jen Schapira (52), Melissa Letch (27), Katie Aeder (27) and Ali Bicknell (23).

Interscholastics

The top eight Andover High boys competing in Interscholastics earlier this week were Alex Marshall, Nate Mullett, Bill Schofield, Mark Edwards, Greg Mercer, Jesse Lugas, Dave Poulo and Steve Li.

Alex Marshall was ranked No. 5 in the league individually based on his regular season performance, while Nate Mullett was No. 6, Greg Mercer No. 8 and Bill Schofield No. 10.

Ken Raiche of St. John's Prep was the North Shore League's top racer.

Andover girls set to race in Tuesday's NSL

Interschols were Colleen Sherry, Amanda Grasso, Emily Winters, Kirsten Nowell, Christine Durant, Jen Prudden, Ashley Nowell and Jen Schapira.

Andover boys sweep

In their final regular season sweep of Masconomet Regional (112-23) and Austin Prep (118-17) to assure the co-championship, the Golden Warriors were sparked by top five finishers Alex Marshall (23.89), Nate Mullett (24.80), Bill Schofield (25.07), Jesse Lugas (25.10) and Glenn Aeder (25.42).

Dave Poulo (25.56) was sixth against Austin and seventh against Masco, Rich DeAngelous (25.74) seventh versus AP and ninth versus Masco, Mark Edwards (25.89) eighth versus Austin and 10th versus Masco, and Jeff Shea (26.74) 10th versus AP.

State Meet

The Andover boys will send a team of five racers to compete in the State Meet at Berkshire East in Charlmont next Tuesday.

That quintet, as selected by Coach Dick Stevens, consists of Alex Marshall, Greg Mercer, Nate Mullett, Bill Schofield and Mark Edwards.

Dave Poulo will serve as the team alternate, in case one of the other five is unable to compete.

Also attending in a non-racing capacity will be Glenn Aeder, Rich DeAngelous, Steve Li and AHS girls team Captains Missy Letch and Sarah Witham.

This latter group will be on hand to help Coaches Stevens and George Walsh, and to assist team members wherever needed.

Bay State Winter Games

On the frigid slopes of Jiminy Peak in Hancock earlier this month, several Andover High boys and girls team skiers performed well at the eighth annual Bay State Winter Games while competing for medals with the best young slopesmen and women in Massachusetts.

Unofficially, Alex Marshall placed fifth, Greg Mercer ninth and Nate Mullett 19th in a field of 91 racers.

The top Andover girls racer was Amanda Grasso in 18th place.

Kirsten Nowell and Jen Prudden finished 29th and 37th respectively in a field of 63.

Boys basketball: Warriors begin tourney play tonight

By Rick Harrison

The top-seeded Andover High boys basketball team opens play in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Tournament tonight at 7 p.m. in the Dunn Gymnasium, taking the floor in anger for the first time in eight days.

The Golden Warriors have been savouring the season finale against Central Catholic for more than a week, and now it's time to get down to business once again.

Coach Dave Fazio's crew saved the best for last, however, putting together its finest defensive performance of the season in a 63-45 triumph over Central.

A game that was billed as a showdown became a showpiece for Andover at its best, the victory completing a perfect 15-0 Merrimack Valley Conference campaign and clinching outright the first league title in boys basketball for AHS since 1981.

It was also the fifth straight victory, albeit the previous two were very shaky, and it improved the Golden Warriors overall record to a flashy 18-2.

Tonight Andover will host either St. John's Prep or Waltham (both 7-12) in the building where it has gone undefeated this season (9-0).

AHS has dominated so thoroughly at home that the average margin of victory in those nine games was 20.2 points, with the closest win 72-61 over New Bedford. No one has come close to touching the Warriors at the Dunn this winter.

A victory tonight would push Andover into the quarterfinals against either Methuen or defending Division 1 champ East Boston at a day and time to be announced.

Andover All-Stars

Twenty-four hours prior to whipping Central, the Golden Warriors swept the major awards at the MVC All-Star selections meeting.

Michigan transfer Mike Roberts was named the league's "Player-of-the-Year," while Dave Fazio was tabbed as "Coach-of-the-Year."

Junior guard Kirk Stockwood and sophomore skywalker Eric

Danis joined Roberts on the exclusive 10-player All-Conference team, while senior forward Mark Lastrina was chosen to the MVC Large School Division All-Star team.

Those players will all participate in the annual MVC All-Star Games on Sunday, March 7 at Wilmington High's Cushing Memorial gymnasium (girls at 1 p.m., boys at 3 p.m.). After 20 games Roberts leads the club in scoring with 415 points (20.8 average), while Danis has 236 points, Stockwood 196, Lastrina 130 and sophomore guard Tom Tanin 115. Andover JVs, freshmen

Bob Ellis and Scott Nicholson are top performers for boys gymnastics team

By Rick Harrison

Sophomore standouts Bob Ellis and Scott Nicholson, along with senior Co-Captain Andy DeBenedictis, were the top performers for the Andover High boys gymnastics team at the recent North Shore League Individual Championships at Burlington High.

The talented trio grabbed second place medals in the vaulting, rings and pommel horse competition respectively, with Ellis adding an impressive second in the all-around.

The League Meet meet brought an unexpected abrupt end to Andover's finest boys gymnastic season in years.

Coach Steve Sirois's squad was scheduled to wrap up the successful 1993 campaign by competing in the State Meet, but an unfortunate combination of circumstances triggered by a snowstorm made it impossible.

League Championship Meet

Andover, the North Shore League runner-up (5-1-0) and No. 4 team in the state (8-4-0 overall), brought nine individual medals and a second place team plaque home from Burlington.

Bob Ellis finished second in the vaulting with an 8.2, fourth in floor exercise with a 6.8, and his 31.0 all-around total was runner-up to league champ Chris Taylor of Burlington who scored 37.1.

Ellis barely missed two more medals when he placed seventh in pommel horse (4.1) and rings (4.3). He also performed well on parallel bars.

Scott Nicholson was second on rings with a 7.0, and Andy DeBenedictis second on pommel horse with a 5.0.

Andover fourths went to sophomore Justin Pierce on parallel bars (5.5), junior Rich Green on rings (5.5) and sophomore Jeff Arsenaault on high bar (4.3).

Arsenaault was also seventh in floor exercise, his 6.0 score missing sixth place and a medal by a scant 1/10th of a point.

Rounding out the top Golden Warrior performers were sophomore Nick Zammuto, sixth in vaulting with a 7.8, and Jeff Feingold who placed sixth on pommel horse (4.4).

MVP of the meet may have been sophomore Dave Charland, who stepped into the breach and announced the entire meet when the regular PA man didn't show.

State Meet snafu

Mother Nature threw a monkey wrench into Andover's plans to compete in the State Meet.

Newton North was the host site, and because a snowstorm the day of the meet was less severe to the south Newton school officials decided to hold the event as scheduled.

Andover had the furthest distance of any qualifier to travel, and because the road conditions were dangerous AHS athletic director Jim Hurley had to make a difficult decision.

He could not, in good conscious, allow the team to travel 30 miles to Newton in the storm on dangerous roads.

So the meet went on without Andover, top-seeded Braintree High winning with a 125.0 score while Attleboro was second (120.0), Burlington third (116.0), Algonquin Regional fourth (100.0), Lincoln-Sudbury fifth and Reading sixth.

"It was a judgement call and Mr. Hurley did what he felt he had to," said Coach Sirois. "The Burlington coach told me later it took them two hours to get to Newton, which is normally about a half-hour drive, so it probably would have taken us four hours each way.

"They had allowed the following day as a snow date, but it would have been tough to reschedule the meet because the next day was the start of school vacation.

"We would have had trouble the second day, anyway," continued Coach Sirois, "because half our team was leaving on vacation.

"The toughest thing for me was trying to figure out what to say to the kids after I got the word. But when I went to cheer up 20 disappointed boys I found they were more disappointed for me than for themselves.

"Feelings like that are what draws a team close together. These guys had a great season. They climbed a long way up the ladder, and it was just an unfortunate situation no one could do anything about."

The irony is that Andover, and not Newton, was originally scheduled to host the State Meet.

Grads, exhibitions

The Andover boys will graduate only two seniors, Co-Captains Tadg Corkery and Andy DeBenedictis. Everyone else on the largest squad in the state is eligible to return.

Coach Sirois hopes to stage some team exhibitions this spring to promote the sport, and also hold open gym sessions where gymnastic instruction will be available.

Any organization interested in setting up an exhibition can contact Coach Sirois at 474-0056.

Regular season results posted

The regular season is over for all Andover High winter sports teams and the final numbers have been tabulated.

Andover's overall record for all teams was a superb 99-31-3.

The breakdown:

Boys Basketball 18-2 (won league title).

Boys Track 10-0-0 (won league title).

Boys Skiing 13-1 (league co-champions).

Girls Gymnastics 6-2 (won MVC Championship Meet).

Girls Basketball 13-7.

Hockey 12-5-3.

Boys Gymnastics 8-4.

Girls Skiing 7-3.

Boys Swimming 6-2.

Girls Track 6-5.

Lady W's hope tournament will rejuvenate sagging troops

By Rick Harrison

The well-rested Andover High girls basketball team is hoping the Eastern Mass. Division I Tournament will serve as a magic elixir to rejuvenate its sagging troops.

The Lady Warriors, who started the season with 12 victories in their first 15 games, limped to the finish with a 56-37 non-league loss to powerful Masconomet Regional in the regular season finale.

The so-called "second season," tournament time, starts tomorrow night for Andover and hopefully it will not be an extension of the last two weeks.

Coach George Sullivan's crew lost four of its last five games, three of which were against potent teams with a combined record of 52-7, and enters the tourney with a 13-7 overall mark.

Andover was flying high following a 57-28 romp over non-league Everett in early February, but the rugged homestretch included losses to 19-1 Haverhill (59-48), Chelmsford (49-36), 14-5 Lowell (52-47) and 19-1 Masco.

It is not coincidence that the slide started shortly after the loss of top scorer Kerry Hagerty with mononucleosis. The AHS tailspin paralleled her absence.

"I talked with Kerry recently and she's about 60 percent (back to normal)," said Coach Sullivan. "She started going to school again this past Monday, but she has to go right home after classes and won't be able to resume any type of strenuous physical activity until at least March 4."

Andover-Medford

Even if Miss Hagerty were to receive doctor's permission to play after that date, the only way Andover will still be alive is if the Lady Warriors go all the way to the tournament finals on March 8.

AHS icemen struggle into tourney

By Rick Harrison

It will be interesting to see how the Andover High hockey team fares in the Eastern Mass. Division 2 Tournament.

The Golden Warriors are extremely young, with only two seniors on the roster, and they have struggled the second half of the season after a spectacular first half.

Coach Bill Cullen's squad was 9-1-1 after 11 games, but as the schedule stiffened the victories were fewer and farther between.

Showing some of the inconsistency of youth and inexperience, AHS limped home 3-4-2 in its final nine starts and dropped two of three last week despite playing brilliantly at times.

A 5-3 non-league victory over Lynn English, coupled with a tough 3-2 loss to Tewksbury and a 6-2 setback to Chelmsford, left the Warriors with final regular season records of 6-5-2 in the league and 12-5-3 overall.

The Warriors were 4-2-2 within their Small School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference, however, and 8-2-2 against Division 2 competition.

Hesenius, Cullen honored

Major awards were also won last week by Co-Captain Justin Hesenius and Coach Cullen.

Hesenius was one of three defensemen named to the 1992-93 MVC All-Conference team, while Cullen was tabbed MVC "Coach-of-the-Year."

No other Andover players were named to the elite 10-man All-Conference or 10-man second team All-Conference squads.

Freshman Chris Cullen was one of eight players selected for honorable mention status.

Cullen led the team in scoring during the regular season with 22 goals and 13 assists for 35 points. The 22 goals were second in the league, just one behind Bilerica's Jonathan Duggan, while the 35 points placed Cullen sixth overall in the scoring race and tied for third in the Small School Division.

Bob Daley was the Warriors second highest scorer through 20 games with 11-20-31 points, while Scott Sullivan had 11-19-30 and Justin Hesenius 11-9-20.

Tewksbury, 3-2

The Redmen, needing a victory to edge out Methuen for first place in the Small School Division of the league, battled back from a 2-0 deficit with a goal late in the second period and two more in the third stanza.

"This was an outstanding hockey game between two excellent high school teams. We couldn't have played any better," said Coach Cullen.

"Our forwards were flying, the defensemen were hitting and the goaltending was solid. Tewksbury brought the best out in us, and it's clear that we play according (up or down) to the ability of our opponent."

Freshman Jeff Mazza put the Golden Warriors on the board with his first varsity goal, assist to freshman defenseman Brian Kwon.

Justin Hesenius doubled the lead to 2-0 early in the second period, with Co-Captain and fellow defenseman Paul Allard drawing the assist.

But Tewksbury, smelling title, got on the board with 1:12 left in the second stanza on the first of Don Bibo's two goals.

Claude Drevet tied it for the Redmen early in the third stanza, and Bibo won it with just 1:48 to play.

Goaltender Peter Afarian was sharp with 29 saves as Tewksbury outgunned the Warriors 32-21 for the game.

Andover, 5-3

The Golden Warriors talented first line, consisting of three underclassmen, was up to its old tricks as freshman recordbreaker Chris Cullen, sophomore Scott Sullivan and junior Bob Daley combined for three goals and seven assists against Lynn English.

Each member of the trio scored one goal, while Sullivan added three assists, Daley two and Cullen two.

Cullen's goal was his 21st and Daley's assists his 19th and 20th.

Andover fell behind English (8-10-2 overall) 2-1 in the first period, but dominated thereafter with a 49-6 shots-on-goal edge the final two periods including 26-1 in the second stanza.

"We obviously didn't come to play in the first period," said Coach Cullen. "The kids weren't up for the game, and I think it was because we were playing an unknown opponent in an unknown rink. And some of the incentive was gone because we had already qualified for the tournament."

"This was also the third game for most of our players in less than a week, and the fourth for the five kids who participated in the All-Star Game. That's a lot of hockey."

"We picked it up in the second period, however, and the intensity was good the rest of the way," added Coach Cullen.

Chris Cullen's goal at 9:07 of the first period, assists to defenseman Jeff Hesenius and Sullivan, gave Andover a brief 1-0 lead.

But Lynn English countered by zipping two past sophomore Peter Afarian just 66 seconds apart a short time later.

Co-Captain Justin Hesenius, Andover's most consistent player, tied it with a power play goal at 2:18 of the second period. It was his 11th goal of the campaign.

Sullivan contributed his 11th of the season five minutes later, but pesky English hung tough with its third goal to tie it at 1:10 of the third session.

Andover freshman Dave Salafia picked the perfect time to net his first varsity goal, converting a pass from freshman linemate Jeff Mazza at 6:20.

That turned out to be the game-winner, with Daley adding some insurance two minutes later (also his 11th).

"We're using the young line of Dave Salafia, Jeff Mazza and Sean Donahue more and more towards the end of the season," said Coach Cullen. "We're going to need them for sure, as a third or fourth line, for the tournament."

Chelmsford, 6-2

The Warriors took 1-0 lead over MVC Large School Division runnerup Chelmsford (10-6-4 overall), as sophomore left wing Dan Hansberry pocketed his sixth goal of the season at 8:31 of the first period.

Before the session ended, however, the Lions Chris Stagnone (unassisted at 10:46) and Jackie Holmes (12:14) had pumped shots past junior starter Phil Smith for a 2-1 Chelmsford edge.

That's how it stayed until late second-period goals just 71 seconds apart by the Lions Rick Sacchetti (13:12) and Billy Riley (14:23) broke the game open.

Chris Cullen's 22nd goal, assisted on the power play by Justin Hesenius and Scott Sullivan, was sandwiched in between two more Chelmsford tallies by Stagnone and Steve MacKinnon.

Scott Munroe and Jeff Hesenius added assists for Andover.

Phil Smith (two periods) and Peter Afarian (third period) combined for 33 saves as Chelmsford finished with a 39-20 shots-on-goal advantage.

All-Star track members meet this Sunday

By Rick Harrison

Because Andover High junior track star Stacey Lavoie's event is usually over in eight or nine seconds, a mere eyeblink in a three-hour track meet, some people have a tendency to overlook her accomplishments.

But the Lady Warriors hurdler may be the best in the state of Massachusetts at what she does.

That will be determined this Sunday at Harvard University when the top guns from across the commonwealth get together for the All-State Championship Meet (noon start).

It's an exclusive competition with only the elite invited.

For now Miss Lavoie is content to be the best hurdler in Eastern Mass. Class B for the second consecutive year, as she defended her title with a record-shattering performance last weekend at Harvard.

"Stacey's amazing. She just keeps getting better and better," offered AHS Head Coach Art Iworsley, whose boys and girls squads turned in solid performances at the Class Meet despite the fact both were still depleted by injuries, illnesses and vacation absences.

Stacey Lavoie was the lone individual champion from Andover, while the girls 4x880 relay quartet of senior Heather Holmader, senior Tricia McNeice, junior Leigh Clarke and senior Captain Amanda Holmes also captured a Class B gold medal by winning their race in a breeze.

The AHS boys came away without a first place finish, but were led once again by versatile Captain Steve Shepard who was second in the 300 dash and anchored the second place mile relay crew.

The top six place winners in each event qualified for this weekend's All-State Championships, which means Andover will be represented by three individuals and two relay teams on the girls side and three individuals and one relay team on the boys side.

In addition, long jumpers Steve Shepard and sophomore Brian Marshall along with the boys 4x200 meter sprint relay team have already qualified for the New England Interscholastic Indoor Track and Field Championships on March 13 at the University of Rhode Island.

Coach Iworsley expects to hear this week whether Stacey Lavoie and the girls 4x200 meter sprint relay crew have qualified for the Division I North field, opens play in the single-elimination tourney tomorrow night at Medford (7 p.m.).

The Mustangs are 15-5 overall and seeded No. 7.

If the Lady Warriors win tomorrow night, they will advance to the quarterfinal round on Sunday against either No. 2 seed Acton-Boxboro (18-1), No. 15 Somerville (10-10) or No. 18 Cambridge Rindge & Latin (5-11).

Lindsey Sweeney led the locals in scoring through 20 games with 257 points, while Kerry Hagerty had the top average (17.0), and was second in total points with 204.

Andover All-Stars

Senior Co-Captains Kerry Hagerty and Lindsey Sweeney were both named to the 10-player 1992-93 Merrimack Valley All-Conference team, while senior center Beth Everett and senior forward Marcia Gemmell were tabbed MVC Large School Division All-Stars.

It was the second All-Conference selection for Hagerty, while Sweeney is a three-time All-Star and first-year All-Conference choice.

Everett and Gemmell are All-Stars for the first time.

All four girls will play in the annual MVC All-Star Game on Sunday, March 7 at Wilmington High (1 p.m. girls, 3 p.m. boys).

Phillips Academy skiers are undefeated

Nick Wadhams.

In their final regular season Prep League competition recently at Waterville Valley, the Phillips Academy boys and girls ski teams finished undefeated by topping seven-school fields.

Both PA squads also produced the individual race winner, the boys sweeping the top three places and the girls putting all five scorers among the top 10.

On the boys side the Big Blue's Tim Newton placed first, Carter Glass second and Dan Levine third.

Andy Hsu was sixth, Dan Smith 12th, and also racing for PA were Steve Hosmer, Alex Orban and

Andover Ski Club hosts qualifying races

Bradford Hill and the Andover Ski Club recently hosted the 1993 qualifying championship races for the Buddy Warner League series. The two-race format in slalom and giant slalom attracted the top skiers from eight ski clubs around the state. The top six finishers in each age group will have the opportunity to represent Massachusetts at the annual Thomson Trophy championship race at Gunstock Mountain in New Hampshire on March 13.

Here are the area racers who skied to the finals:

Class V Girl: Caitlin Grasso, Mindi Regii and Lisa Tylus.

Class V Boys: Crawford Sinkinson

Class IV Girls: Libby Sinkinson, Alison

Skoglund and Scarlett Mello.

Class IV Boys: Todd Kuzmitski and Will Regii.

Class III Girls: Hannah Pfeiffe, Jamie Ian and Jen Schapira.

Three racers from the Andover Ski Club qualified to represent eastern Massachusetts at the Tri-State championship races to be held Feb. 27 and 28 in Connecticut. They will compete against the top finishers from Connecticut, Rhode Island and western Massachusetts. The race format includes three giant slalom runs at Sundown Ski Area on Saturday and three slalom runs at Mt. Mohawk on Sunday.

Class III Boys: Rudi

Johnson, Ryan Downey, Guy Morneau and Dane Ahern.

Class IV Girls: Allison Skoglund, Libby Sinkinson and Caitlin Grasso.

A Class IV tri-state team of 16 boys and nine girls will be picked from the championship to go to a USSA-sponsored race camp in Utah.

Swimmers compete in North Sectional championships

The Andover High School men's varsity swim team competed in the North Sectional championships last Friday and Saturday and finished fourth in a field of 38 teams.

Senior co-captain Matt Liberty had silver medal finishes in the 200-yard individual medley (1:58.84) and 500-yard freestyle (4:46.09). Both his times established new school records in the events and the I.M. time broke the existing sectional meet record.

annual Girls Eastern Championships on Sunday, Match 7 at Brandeis University in Waltham.

Andover girls

The Lady Warriors were fourth overall in the team standings, chalking up 25 points to finish 18 behind Class B champion Newton South (43).

Stacey Lavoie blazed to victory in the 60-yard hurdles in 8.67 seconds, smashing by plenty the existing Class B record of 8.85 which she established last winter en route to her first title.

The 60 yard distance is 10 yards further than she is accustomed to running in regular season dual meets, but the difference obviously didn't effect her.

Miss Lavoie has been unbeatable all year, quite an accomplishment for an athlete whose hurdling career was thought to be in jeopardy last fall because of a hamstring injury.

At the time Coach Iworsley commented that Stacey had lost some flexibility and might have to switch to the sprints.

The 4x880 yard relay foursome of Heather Holmender (2:37.0 split), Tricia McNeice (2:42.9), Leigh Clarke (2:36.3) and Amanda Holmes (2:36.2) combined for a 10:32.4 clocking.

"The fact they won doesn't surprise me at all," said Coach Iworsley. "But the margin of victory does. I thought it would be much closer, especially because they've run a 10:19.1 and were well over that in this meet."

Miss Witman was fifth in the 600 yard run (1:33.4), Miss Levesque sixth in the 300 yard dash (39.6), and the relayers fifth in 4:19.5 with splits of 67.1 by Miss Goldenberg, 67.8 by Miss Rozopoulos, 61.6 by Miss Lavoie and 62.8 by Miss Witman.

Andover boys

The undefeated Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division dual meet champs chalked up 26 points to place sixth overall.

But it was a highly-competitive sixth place, Andover finishing just nine points behind champion Reading High (35) in the tightly-bunched field.

Steve Shepard tied his personal-best time of 32.7, matching his clocking in last year's All-State Meet and barely missing Rick Collins's longstanding school record 32.5, en route to second place in the 300.

The mile relay team clocked 3:32.7 and placed second to Reading in a photo finish. Captain Colin Arseneault running a 53.1 leg, sophomore Matt Ely a 53.3, senior Josh Nelken a 54.3 and Shepard a 51.5 anchor leg.

Arseneault also qualified in the 600 yard run, placing fifth in 1:17.4, and senior Captain J.P. Ciruso in the shot put with a fourth-place heave of 46'6".

Four other AHS boys barely missed out. Sean O'Leary seventh in the shot put (44'5"), Matt Ely seventh in the 1000 yard run (2:30.2), senior Captain Brian Twomey eighth in the mile (4:47.8), and senior sprinter Rocket Rod Lumley eighth in the 50 yard dash.

Swimmers compete in North Sectional championships

Sophomore Adam Schoen earned second-place honors in the 200-yard freestyle (1:50.55) and was fourth in the 100 free (51.77).

The 400-yard freestyle relay of Schoen, senior co-captain Adam Robb, sophomore Chris Blongiewicz and Liberty was third (3:28.60) and the 200-yard medley relay with Schoen, junior Tim Connors, Liberty and Blongiewicz was fifth (1:49.94).

Blongiewicz was seventh in the 100-yard backstroke (59.90) and eighth in the 200 I.M. (2:09.34). Connors finished eighth in the 10-yard breaststroke (1:08.85) and Robb was 12th in the 500 free (5:22.43). Ben Mazin and Adam Moskal also competed.

AHS coaches Rick Battistini and Abby Robb were pleased with the team's showing. "Last year we had 14 swimmers qualify for sectionals and we finished third," said

Coach Robb. "This year we had only half that many and we placed fourth. The guys did a great job."

Coach Battistini agreed. "The team really came through when they needed to. Matt's two record swims were super and the relay performances were really impressive."

Beth Kiker and Carol Ommundson apply the final coat of recycled paint to the walls of Carolyn Dann's house.

RECYCLING

Recycled paint has arrived!

By Virginia Cole

Recycled paint has finally come to Massachusetts. The Green Paint Co. of Manchester collects left-over paints, both latex and oil based. They produce recycled latex interior and exterior paints and oil based paints and stains in a limited range of colors. Their paint is a high quality product made of 90-100 percent recycled materials and costs less than virgin paint of similar quality.

Carolyn Dann of Dana Duxbury Associates in Andover has been working with The Green Paint Co. to advise personnel there on ways to collect unwanted paint from communities. The company has a permit from the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection to accept paint from communities directly or through collection events and from painting contractors.

Ms. Dann is using this paint in her own home. (See above photo.) Andover will have first-hand knowledge of how it really works. Beth Kiker, the painting contractor, can tell us her professional opinion of the paint, too.

The Green Paint Company's plan is to develop its business in a similar fashion to that of companies doing bottle collection and recycling. They will collect paint, sort and store as the demand is generated, manufacture and sell the paint. They are independent of the virgin paint manufacturers but have received encouragement from many, as they provide a service that the regular paint companies are not providing.

Right now the company charges a fee to collect the paint, but as the demand develops and they sell more paint, this will be lessened or will not be necessary. They began by producing a water-based, lead-free, parking-lot marking paint.

They also produce recycled paint for marking lines on playing fields. The town offices in Natick will be painted with their recycled paint soon.

Perhaps Andover could use some of this paint, learn about it and at some time sponsor a paint collection. It would be one more thing that wouldn't pollute our air and water.

Samaritans fill a pressing need here

Samaritan volunteers answer their phones nearly 100 times every day at the center in Lawrence. Often the caller is a person who is worried about a depressed family member or friend.

In response to the increasing number of these third-party calls, the Samaritans of Merrimack Valley offer a support group, Concerned Friends, a place to share feelings of frustration and helplessness and experiences that may help others cope with their daily relationships.

Concerned Friends meets on the first Monday of each month from 7 to 9 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 57 Peters St., North Andover. Meetings are open to people of all ages who are concerned about friends or family members.

There is no attendance requirement and no fee. Samaritans are not affiliated with any religious group.

This group is not intended as a therapy session or a substitute for counseling. For more information, call 688-0030.

BUSINESS PROFILES

Mike Scenna with golf equipment.
Play It Again Sports

Located in the Stadium Plaza in Lawrence, Play It Again Sports is a new and unique concept in sporting goods stores. The store carries both new and used sporting equipment. If you have old, but usable equipment, you can bring it to Play It Again Sports and use it for trade in value, you can sell it to them, or you can leave it on consignment. This franchise operation was the brain storm of a mother with lots of outgrown sporting equipment, and this shop will prove to be a boon to mothers with similar problems in this area.

The Scenna family invites you in to visit the store and see the array of sporting good needs they have in stock. If you are looking for something unusual, be sure to call them as you never know what treasures they might have available.

Right now, Play It Again Sports is gearing up for the spring and summer sports seasons. They have a large inventory of both new and used golf equipment and accessories. If you or your child are just learning the game, come in to look over the used equipment and get yourself ready to play at a fraction of the cost for new equipment. And remember, when you are ready to move to better quality equipment, that old equipment can be used for trade-in value. Hitting nets will be available for your home practice needs.

Full lines of baseball, soccer and tennis equipment will also be available. Both new and used equipment for all three sports will be in stock. Come in to see the wide array of baseball bats, gloves and shoes, soccer cleats and balls, and tennis racquets to choose from. Play It Again Sports also carries other accessories for these sports.

Spring heralds the beginning of other sports seasons as well, and Play It Again Sports carries equipment for many of them. They stock a selection of in-line skates if you are ready to try them, and even have some lacrosse equipment and yards games. Before you invest in expensive camping and fishing gear, stop by and see what the shop has to offer in the way of used equipment. Keep the camping gear in mind as you get kids ready for camp.

Play It Again Sports is located at 160 Winthrop Avenue, Lawrence, in the Stadium Plaza (across from Showcase Cinemas). The hours are M-W 11-7, Th & F 11-8, Sat 10-6, Sun 12-4. Telephone: (508) 687-8084.

LEGAL NOTICE

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION
Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 14(a) and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.00), the Department of Environmental Protection announces that a Preliminary Assessment and/or Limited Site Investigation has been performed at the following location: #3-4177, CYR OIL PROPERTY, 14 NORTH MAIN STREET, ANDOVER, MA.

This investigation has confirmed that a release of oil and/or hazardous materials has occurred at this location. Therefore, the Department has identified it as a confirmed disposal site. The Department has also determined that this site is a non-priority disposal site (as defined by M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 2). M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 3A (1) (3) requires that, if feasible, permanent solutions be implemented at disposal sites. If a permanent solution is not feasible, then a temporary solution must be implemented, and a plan for achieving a permanent solution must be developed.

This site has also been granted a Waiver of Approvals by DEP. Waiver sites are non-priority disposal sites which have been granted a Waiver of Approvals by the Department, pursuant to 310 CMR 40.537. This waiver allows the person granted it to conduct remedial response actions at the disposal site without prior Department approval of these actions.

M.G.L. c. 21E and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan provide several opportunities for public notice and involvement in decisions regarding response actions at disposal sites, including:

- The Chief Municipal Official and Board of Health of the community in which the site is located will be provided with notices of the results of investigations, plans for remedial responses, and field work involving the use of heavy construction equipment and/or protective clothing (310 CMR 40.202).

- Upon receipt of a petition from ten or more residents of the municipality in which the disposal site is located, or of a municipality potentially affected by a disposal site, a plan for involving the public in decisions regarding response actions at the site will be prepared and presented at a public meeting. This plan will be revised based on comments received, and will be implemented over the course of the response action (310 CMR 40.203).

For information on how to make an appointment to review the files and obtain more information on the confirmed disposal site referenced above, and the opportunities for public involvement during its remediation, please contact Karen Stromberg, DEP Northeast Regional Office, Site Assessment and Cleanup Section, 10 Commerce Way, Woburn, MA 01801 (Telephone: 617/935-2160).

What's not in next year's budget?

system with the fire department and together they have 20 video display terminals. But the operating system only allows 10 terminals to be used at a time. During the day, when dispatch takes up two terminals and the records department uses two more, only six work stations are available for the rest of the police and fire departments, and very often an officer trying to file or gain access to a report is locked out.

The upgrade would have allowed two more work stations to be used. It also would have increased the speed of the printer, which also ties up the system.

The department also was looking to buy new bullet-proof vests, the chief said. And if he were allowed a wish list, an increase in personnel would top it.

"The crime rate is going up and up, but less and less men are on the road," the chief said. "We'd like to get back to where we were originally, to 50 people."

Four positions have been cut from the force in the last three years, one lieutenant and three patrolpersons. And of the 46 remaining, three have been out on long-term disability for more than a year and are not expected to return anytime soon.

Fire: No fire alarm truck until '95

Chief Harold Hayes had a few items cut from his budget, but he said he can't complain.

"I suggested we go to a higher amount on overtime for sick leave and vacations. They turned that down," Chief Hayes said.

And a fire alarm truck he requested was cut out of his budget for this year, but is in the Capital Improvement Plan for purchase in fiscal '95.

The firefighter staff will go back up in next year's budget to 46 from 43. That was made possible because retirements have allowed replacements at lower salaries. The 46 is just two short of a full compliment of 48, which the department hasn't had for many years, according to the chief.

"I was lucky to get back to the 46. I consider myself very fortunate," Chief Hayes said.

DPW: Trucks and roads are losers

Bob McQuade, Department of Public Works director, said nothing was cut from his budget because he knew better than to put anything in it when other costs were going up so much this year.

"Nothing really got nixed because the sanitary-district figures were up and, of course, the solid-waste figures are up," Mr. McQuade said.

Mr. McQuade has already proposed hikes in both the water and sewer rates, and solid-waste costs will go up in July.

But there are some things he would have liked to have been able to afford.

"Two main things - more money for replacement of trucks and two would be put more money into road repairs,"

Mr. McQuade said. "That was never put in. What you can afford is what you put in."

Those items are included in the long-range program laid out in the town's Capital Improvement Plan, Mr. McQuade said.

Community Development

Planners lost one of their three members in that department in December when Harry Smith, town planner for three years, resigned to take a job in Vermont. That position has only been funded for an entry-level planner for next year at about one half the salary Mr. Smith was earning.

"I've got a half of a Harry," said Stephen Colyer, planning director. "Given the work program that we have, I think it would be beneficial to the department and the town to have that (fully funded position) in."

The department could also use more computers, according to Mr. Colyer.

But the department has been operating on a bare-bones budget for a couple of years. Two years ago all subscriptions to technical magazines and memberships to professional organizations were cut. All continuing education and training seminars have been cut out unless employees pay for them themselves.

"We haven't been pushing it. We've held off on getting some computer stuff and other types of office equipment," Mr. Colyer said. "The most important thing is getting the additional body back."

plan that the selectmen rejected included widening Lowell and Haverhill street to establish right-turn only lanes. Left- and right-only turning lanes were also to be instituted at the intersection on both lanes of Route 28.

In addition, a small island was to be built in front of Lawrence Savings Bank to reflow traffic going into Poor Street, as well as an extended curb along the south bound lane of Route 28 after the intersection at Lowell Street. That extension of curb was designed to establish a cordoned-off area for south-bound buses to pick up and drop off passengers. Plans also called for shortening the distance across Route 28 for pedestrians since the plan called for the removal of the median strip at the lights across from the Balmoral condominiums.

Selectmen, town planners, consultants and state highway officials will follow the traffic patterns once the light at Kenilworth Street is operating. Selectmen said they would then review the traffic in the square and listen to recommendations.

Men in Business

Inside this special section are short profiles of Andover-area men in business, as an 'equal-time' follow-up publication to Women in Business, which was published last Oct. 22 in honor of National Business Women's Week. Townsman intern Alix Driscoll interviewed those profiled and wrote their stories. Townsman photographer Matthew Sapienza is responsible for many of the photos. Assistant editor Jack Grady designed the cover and did the layout for the section.

Francisco J. Perez is a busy executive, yet when he walks through the cafeteria of the hospital, employees call out "Hi Frank," and he responds enthusiastically, calling each by name.

"One of the greatest impressions Frank has made on us is his ability to relate and respect all of New England Memorial Hospital's employees. You will often find him walking the hospital's halls, conversing with housekeepers and vice presidents alike," said Robert and Diana Gould of Grey Birch Road, who nominated Mr. Perez, the president of the Stoneham hospital.

"Making rounds" is how Mr. Perez describes his style of management. Frequently, he visits all corners of the hospital to understand the challenges that health caregivers are facing. He has "a flattened organization" of management, and an open-door policy.

Mr. Perez has come a long way. As a teen-ager, he emigrated from Cuba just before the missile crisis and earned his high school equivalency certificate through a correspondence course. He supported himself for a while doing construction work. After graduating from Columbia Union College with studies in business and economics, he earned a master's degree in hospital administration from George Washington University. He is chairman-elect of American Protestant Health Association and fellow of American College of Healthcare Executives.

In 1988, 240-bed New England Memorial

Hospital was operating at a $4 million loss. By shortening the length of hos-

Philip Byers helps to put the pieces together for his clients

"I would like to nominate attorney Philip Byers as an outstanding businessman who lives and works in Andover. Not only does he know all the facets of divorce law, he has a great deal of compassion for people facing this mounting problem in our society. The past two years have been very difficult for me; through it all he has been by my side with understanding and kindness."

— a client of Mr. Byers

Philip Byers specializes in divorce law. He believes that it is his role to "help to put the pieces together with counseling and other means, so that people can be self-sufficient."

He finds it "very satisfying to help people" and has been doing so for 20 years. He has very high expectations and understands that the client relationship is a partnership; the client provides facts and the lawyer provides advice.

He says that if both parties have been married for a short time and both work; then a divorce can take weeks and is a straightforward division of property. The amount of holdings and type of property need valuations by experts. Custody or visitation situations can take on a life of their own, take years to settle and require intervention by professionals, according to Mr. Byers.

As a youngster Mr. Byers learned to cook from his grandmother, who emigrated from Russia in 1917, and for years the Wild Rose Drive resident has relaxed by cooking. He has grilled fish outdoors in both snow and hurricanes, and recently roasted a fruit-stuffed goose glazed with anisette.

His son Weslie is a first-year student at Bates College; David is a seventh-grader at West Middle School, and his daughter, Jennie, is a second-grader at Shawsheen School.

His wife, Karen, is the head of biosafety at Dana Farber Cancer Institute's containment suite for AIDS research.

Being creative during recession makes him a hero

"My nomination is for my very best friend in the world and the great 'Dad' of Eddie and Karen. I proudly nominate my husband, Guy C. Cretien, of 60 Haverhill St., Andover," wrote his wife, Donna.

"Guy joined Saloom Furniture Company in Winchendon approximately three years ago and began working only part time, as he was also managing his own computer consulting business at the time. As the recession hit and got worse, bringing about very difficult times, Guy persevered in his work... for his family and became very creative in an attempt to remain responsible and accountable in these hard times." Mrs. Cretien says that it was very hard for him to give up his own business 18 months ago to work for the furniture company full time, but did so in order to provide for his family.

The firm makes dinettes, dining room sets and kitchen tables with marble-inlaid tops. At Saloom, he set up a pur-

Although Mr. Cretien commutes 63 miles each way to work, he makes time to direct Pack 77 as assistant cubmaster at West Parish Church. He roller-blades and runs long-distance races. He has run the Feaster Five several times.

Son, Eddie, is a second-grader at West Elementary School and daughter, Karen, is a student at Christ Church Children's Center.

Donna Cretien works as an admitting coordinator at Melrose Hospital.

We need more clinics with community-oriented care

The high cost of deductibles on health plans keeps many people from seeking medical care when a problem is fairly small. "We have been slow in preventative care; there are too many visits to the emergency room. We need more community clinics with community-oriented care," said John G. Carlson, in response to a question about health care of Merrimack Valley residents.

In May, Mr. Carlson, who has lived in Andover for five years, will share his ideas on a wide basis when John Wiley and Sons publishes the book he has written with Bruce N. Barge, Ph.D., The Executive's Guide to Controlling Health and Disability Costs: Strategic-based Solutions.

Mr. Carlson is the president of RHM Consulting, which he formed a year ago in Marlboro to address health care and workers' compensation issues to help management plan for their companies and employees and train employees about their health.

The Golden Oaks Lane resident prepared for his profession by studying political science at Bucknell and finance at the M.B.A. program at University of Chicago. He has been an executive in both electronics and health-care industries. Nuala Carlson, his wife, is a volunteer at St. Augustine's School, where she organized the Christmas fair. Son, Sean, a fourth-grader, and daughter, Tara, a second-grader, attend St. Augustine's School.

He believes in a three-pronged approach to this very complex and costly health-care issue. Companies should consider the health of their workers to keep them fit. They should also be concerned with health care, that is, medical response to employees' injury and sickness. Companies need to evaluate disability issues, helping employees return to work after a medical problem. With the help of flexible working hours, transportation assistance or a "job coach" who is a colleague, disabled workers could return to work while recovering, he said.

policy-makers to save money by spending money on education to help their employees to take responsibility for their health. "People have a right to information in their own language and directed to their needs." He gives an example of helping a person with a back problem who may have a cumulative injury from improper bowling, golfing or lifting. The employee could take home a video about proper posture or breathing exercises. Currently only 1 percent of health dollars are spent on education.

WINGATE AT ANDOVER

A Rehabilitative and Skilled Nursing Residence

Scott Schuster is the third generation representing the Schuster family, carrying on the Wingate tradition in the fields of real estate and health care. Since his graduation from Tufts University in 1979, he has become an active member in both fields with a focus on the elderly, and, more specifically, geriatric long-term care.

For three generations the Wingate name has been synonymous with improving the quality of life for tens of thousands of families, handicapped individuals, and the elderly throughout the United States. Continental Wingate Company, which is owned by the family, consists of three primary functioning subsidiaries: Wingate Management Company, its property management division; Continental Wingate Financial Service, a diversified financial services company; and Wingate Health Care, the company's health care development and operating company.

After several years of successful development of multifamily housing, Mr. Schuster was responsible for leading the company into the field of health care in 1985. His vision of providing full service geriatric care is an outgrowth of the company's core business of providing residential apartments for the elderly. Having build, developed, and continuing to operate elderly apartments nationwide, the company became acutely aware of the changing needs of today's elderly.

Wingate Health Care provides innovative skilled nursing and rehabilitative programs in residential settings uncharacteristic of what one would expect to find in a typical nursing home. Mr. Schuster attributes the company's unique approach to his background in real estate and his sensitivity to the changing needs of the elderly. "Not having been influenced by some of the experiences that many of today's health care providers have had over the years, we entered long-term care with a fresh new approach. We felt strongly that the environment should be as comfortable residentially as it is functional in providing quality health care services. We therefore integrated into our physical plants the charm and warmth typical of a small European-style hotel with extensive areas designed to provide the full range of patient services required in a modern long-term care setting. This attitude extends not only throughout the building but to the attitudes of our health care staff as well. We are always striving to achieve a balance between our resident's health care needs, family interaction, and the highest standards of quality health care."

Wingate developed, owns, and operates the recently completed Wingate at Andover located at 80 Andover Street, a rehabilitative and skilled nursing residence. The company also owns and operates facilities in Reading and Wilbraham, Massachusetts, and is presently underway with its newest facility in Brighton, Massachusetts.

In addition to his responsibilities as President of Wingate Health Care and Director of Continental Wingate Company, Mr. Schuster is married with three daughters and is also an active member of the community, including serving as a Director of the Massachusetts Federation of Nursing Homes, the State's long-term care provider association. He also serves as Chairman of the Federation's Committee on Legislation and as a member of their Steering Committee. Mr. Schuster is a Trustee of the Center for Blood Research, a Harvard University-affiliated research and production laboratory specializing in immunological research and blood-related disorders and serves as its Treasurer and Chairman of the Center's Finance Committee. He is a trustee of The Recuperative Center in Boston, a not-for-profit geriatric and rehabilitative nursing facility providing short-term transitional nursing care to Boston's frail elderly. Mr. Schuster has also recently been named a member of the corporation of The New England Baptist Hospital and serves on its Development and Centennial Committees.

At 25 he owns his own shop — proud to be a cobbler

'It is an art; every shoe is hand-crafted back into shape. It takes years to learn how to put a heel on. Every shoe is different."

Paul Pelland proudly calls himself a cobbler, but his shop at 7 Bartlet St. is listed under Shoe Repair in the phone book. Mr. Pelland has been working as cobbler after school since he was 12; at 14 he was running a repair shop. He apprenticed for six years, which he says is the only way to learn the business.

At 25 he owns his own shop, which is filled with thousands of dollars worth of equipment.

A native of Attleboro, he attended trade school and Franklin Institute in Boston where he studied automotive engineering. Repairing shoes paid his way through school and after working as an automotive service man for a year, he returned to what gave him satisfaction, shoe repairing. "Customers are always happy, and they take pride in work done right."

Mr. Pelland says he can fix anything. With his natural ingenuity, years of repair experience and engineering training, he will tackle enthusiastically any challenge that can be glued, sewn or fixed.

He has repaired jackets, handbags, well-traveled backpacks, mangled zippers, and lawn furniture, umbrellas, and he has done leather alterations. Recently, he constructed a vinyl top for an antique fire engine for the Bristol County Bicentennial Parade and re-attached arms to a cherished doll. For a nationally-known wrestler, Mr. Pelland reconstructed a pair of size 22 sneakers into slip-on dress loafers.

He works 60 hours a week in the shop and 10 more hours at home doing the financial records. In his spare time, he works with electronics and on engineering inventions to aid the shoe industry. A fiction book is "on hold."

He chose the location of Andover to set up his own business because he understood that here "people recognize quality and spend good money on shoes." With this investment people "don't mind the money to make them looking like new; they value good work."

He sees a steady stream of customers and believes that his business is growing.

As a gesture of support in these hard times Mr. Pelland has been offering free shoeshines to people going to interviews; several job-seekers accepted his offer.

Dana Cohen fitted glasses with dime-size lenses for infant

Two years ago Dana Cohen fitted eyeglasses with lenses the size of a dime for a prematurely-born, 7-week-old Nigerian boy. The infant had undergone surgery for cataracts in Boston, and required very tiny and very strong lenses.

The Andover resident specializes in fitting eyeglasses for children, and has been recognized nationally by 20/20 Magazine, a national trade publication, as "the leading pediatric optician in New England." Mr. Cohen is a registered dispensing optician, a profession he learned by apprenticing with his father, Dr. Frederick Cohen, while attending Brandeis University.

Mr. Cohen has been dispensing eyewear at Medford Optical for 16 years. Eight years ago he saw an increased need in the pediatric field, so he began stocking more eyewear for children and made his services known to the pediatric ophthalmologists who perform surgery and treat special-needs children.

Dr. John D. Wright, pediatric ophthalmologist of Lexington Eye Associates, said: "Half the battle in young babies is to have the glasses fit properly where they don't pinch or hurt so that the child will leave them in place.

Having the glasses done right is a major relief to me. There aren't that many people qualified to do this, so it is wonderful to have someone right here in the community." Mr. Cohen has gained a reputation as "the children's optician" for tough cases, according to Dr. Wright.

Recently, while grocery shopping, a mother in Connecticut saw a young patient of Mr. Cohen and was so impressed by the child's glasses that she drove three and a half hours to Medford Optical. She said that no one in Connecticut had been able to fit her 2-year-old child and when she saw the children's department said: "I am definitely in the right store." Fitting small children with the proper eyewear is a specialty that requires experience, industry knowledge and a lot of patience. To make his job easier and the child's experience pleasurable, Mr. Cohen has scaled down half of the shop with little treasure-chest seats, with frames and mirrors at the child's eye level. "It is not unusual to find him down on his knees with the children, adjusting the eyeglasses for that 'perfect fit' — and really enjoying it," said neighbors Michael and Cindy Pilla of Andover.

Mr. Cohen lives at 155 Blackberry Lane with his wife, Ginny, and daughters, Laura, 7, a student at South Elementary School, and Rachel, 11, a student at Doherty Middle School. For 10 years he has played trombone with Soft Touch, a big band of 20 musicians from a variety of professions who play gigs in the Greater Boston area. Soft Touch donates all its fees to scholarships for students who have been active in high school music.

John Dugger: architect, designer, author, educator, photographer, recycler of venerable buildings

He's Back!

More than two years ago the Townsmen wrote about the loss of John Dugger's construction business and his home, which was tied to that business. His money-crunch was caused by a declining economy and a bank in difficult straits.

"Hunker down and keep an eye on the margins," is Mr. Dugger's advice for surviving a recession. He believes that this one is more serious than the one in the 1980s because of collapse of many financial institutions.

Now, Mr. Dugger is mainly planning single-family homes, helping clients to understand their needs. Utilizing his 20 years experience, he also makes recommendations about the appropriateness of a home they may be about to purchase. "This is the left hemisphere side of the business." He and his three engineer colleagues have an "environmentally-orientated practice. Sustainability, which means building projects which have a life beyond one use, and zero-waste construction," are the goals of the practice. "Waste has value," he believes.

In these challenging times, Mr. Dugger has also turned to other pursuits. Besides teaching at the Boston Architectural Center, he will write a lexicography of the computerization of architectural terms for publication. He hopes to write two books he has had "on the back burner."

John Dugger — architect, designer, author, educator, photographer and recycler of venerable buildings — has worked prolifically in Andover. He was the architect and contractor for the old freight station reconstruction, which now contains business offices at 15 Railroad St., was the project manager for Old Town Hall renovation and architect for the former East Junior High School conversion to town offices.

Mr. Dugger proudly keeps in working order his 1963 light green with white top Studebaker, plays squash at Phillips Academy and walks the many AVIS trails around town.

Katherine Koob, Mr. Dugger's wife, has been a building renovator and credit manager for a plastics firm. She nominated him: "Most of us know him

I guess I know a bit more about him because I have had the pleasure of his assistance at home since our marriage... my best friend for the last 20 years."

He's the man who makes glasses

John Simko

To the youngest residents of Andover – those 8 and under – John Simko is “the man who makes glasses.” And “making glasses,” especially for children, is something John Simko loves to do – and does well.

The owner and president of Andover Optical, at 42 Main St., Mr. Simko is a dispensing optician, who fabricates eyewear for the entire family. But his specialty, he feels, is in fitting children with glasses and fabricating difficult prescriptions. In addition to local referrals, he also receives them from ophthalmologists in Boston and Lexington, who have confidence in the way he fits young people.

His youngest client ever was 8 months old, and he said he really had to search for a frame small enough to fit before he could fabricate lenses for the baby.

Andover Optical has been on the same street, if not the same location, for 18 years, originally opening at 36 Main St. Five years ago, when Mr. Simko wanted to expand, as he tells it, “I needed more room and the Christian Science Reading Room needed a smaller area, so we swapped storefronts.”

Mr. Simko was born and educated in Cleveland, Ohio, and after graduating from high school, went into the Coast Guard for four years. In 1962, when he knew that he wanted to become an optician, he tried to find an opticianry school, but there were none in the area. Although W.A. Jones Optical in Cleveland offered him a job and an opportunity to join its 3-year training program, he at first refused, then signed up. “It was the best decision I ever made in my life,” he says.

Mr. Simko married the following year and moved to Boston, continuing his apprenticeship in Newton Centre. In 1965, he was board certified in Massachusetts and is now also certified in Ohio.

Today, Andover Optical is a family-owned and family-run business. His wife, Carolyn, runs the office and does the bookkeeping. His daughter, Jennifer, following in her father's footsteps, went to Endicott College, then to Newbury College for another two years to train as an optician. Board-certified in Massachusetts and by the American Board of Opticianry, Jennifer Simko originally worked part-time and for the past three years has been working full time in the store.

All four of the Simko girls, Julie, Jennifer, Kara, and Kristen, were educated in the Andover school system. Julie, a graduate of State University of New York, is a personnel recruiter for a company in North Andover. Kara is a junior at Salem State College, majoring in elementary education; and Kristen is a first-year student at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Mr. Simko says the one thing that gives him a good feeling is when people who have moved away from Andover come into his store when visiting family or friends to order their eyewear – sometimes from as far away as California. But his most distant client, geographically, was a young man from Korea, a student at Phillips Academy, who called from Korea and asked Mr. Simko to make him a pair of glasses so he could have them when he returned to school in the fall.

Mr. Simko said that when he went into the field, glasses were just therapeutic appliances – to help someone see properly. Today, eyewear has become a fashion industry. Lenses were originally made of glass, then plastic. Now we have polycarbonate lenses, safety lenses, and a new high-index lens that is thinner and lighter.

Mr. Simko is a fellow of the National Academy of Opticianry, an association that promotes education and improvements in opticianry. He is a past president of the Andover Lions Club and was a member of the organization for about 15 years.

He is on the board of directors of UNICO of Merrimack Valley and a member of MILO, Massachusetts Independent Licensed Opticians, whose members must meet and maintain strict professional standards in the field of opticianry and which strives to educate the public about eyewear, since “we have only one pair of eyes and should do our best to take good care of them.”

Community service important to Chris O'Keefe, owner of the Mail Room

Unfailing good humor, always a positive response to customers, and great generosity" are the reasons why Chris O'Keefe, the owner of the Mail Room, 9 Bartlet St., is a valued member of the downtown Andover business community, according to Barbara and Doris Bangert of 75 Dascomb Road.

He wraps parcels of all sizes and shapes and offers shipping, mailbox rentals, secretarial services, faxing, and bulk mailing. Mr. O'Keefe notes that these services are in great demand in Andover, which has many small businesses and consultants.

This Wilmington resident has always been in a service industry. For 20 years, he was a hair stylist, did customer service work for Reid-Meredith of Lawrence, which manufactures realistic synthetic fiber wigs for fashion and medical needs, and later worked for a sports clothing manufacturer. Mr. O'Keefe bought the Mail Room five years ago after it had been in business for six months. It is not a franchise.

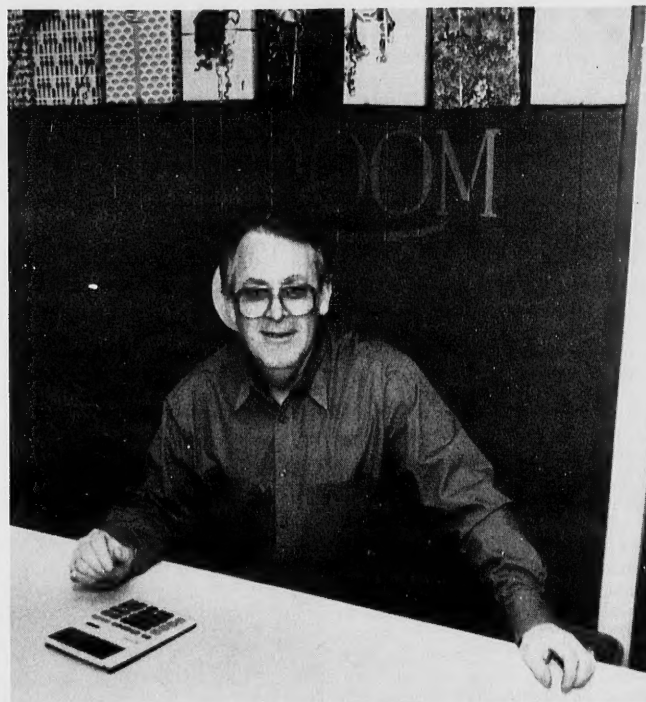

With his assistant, John Butt of Andover, he has packed and shipped an extraordinary variety of treasured objects. Recently, he carefully wrapped and sent a Tiffany lampshade appraised at $50,000. Hundreds of teddy bears leave the Mail Room each year. Some go to customers of local gift shops and others to college students who have forgotten them at home during vacations. Shipping a soldered-

Community service is important to Mr. O'Keefe. During the Persian Gulf War, he offered families and area businesses the opportunity to send packages free to the military in Saudi Arabia. Last year, he invited townspeople to drop off clothing for those less fortunate; from Christmas to March he collected and shipped five tons at no cost to Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place in Boston. This past Christmas season he rounded up and sent three more tons of still-useful clothing.

Young Designs contributes to success of many businesses

Frederick Young, the president for 11 years of Young Designs of North Reading, believes that the recession may be about over. During the fourth quarter, Mr. Young saw "a pickup in business, and January was the best in three years."

Young Designs has contributed to the success of many other businesses by designing their annual reports, collateral materials, point-of-purchase displays, packaging illustrations, communication packages, and technical and sales manuals. Mr. Young works six or seven days a week — assisted by his wife, Judith, who handles the books. She is also the assistant relocation director for Victor Company.

A student of graphic design at Massachusetts College of Art, Mr. Young was fortunate to work for several printing companies, which gave him practical experience while a student. He learned budgeting, was paid and received course credit for work done on the job. "I work very fast and know what it will look like when leaving a meeting. I recognize (what clients need) and can weed through the mass of information and help them focus."

Mr. Young lives at 8 Starwood Crossing with his wife, Donna, who proudly nominated him, and his daughter, Kelly, a senior at Andover High School, and son, Kevin, a student at Central Catholic.

Andover resident Frederick Young, the president of Young Designs of North Reading, identifies his client's needs, working quickly to bring strategic and visual focus to their printed communications.

Steven Gonsalves is the owner of Palace Spa in Brighton

'Steven could be presented as an example of the American work ethic, sometimes now forgotten," said Donna M. Gonsalves, nominating her husband, whom she also called "her friend," to this Men in Business section.

Mr. Gonsalves owns the Palace Spa, which he operates with his family from 5:45 a.m. to midnight almost every day of the year.

About the 70-year-old convenience store in Brighton, Mr. Gonsalves proudly notes that it is "the general meeting place for all the people in this area of town; everyone eventually comes through the door." A successful minority business owner in a predominately white area, he believes he is respected by the neighborhood.

"They become your friends as well as your customers after a while." Recognizing the need to reach out to people in these times, he says: "There is a certain segment of people that we give out a cup of coffee and doughnuts to."

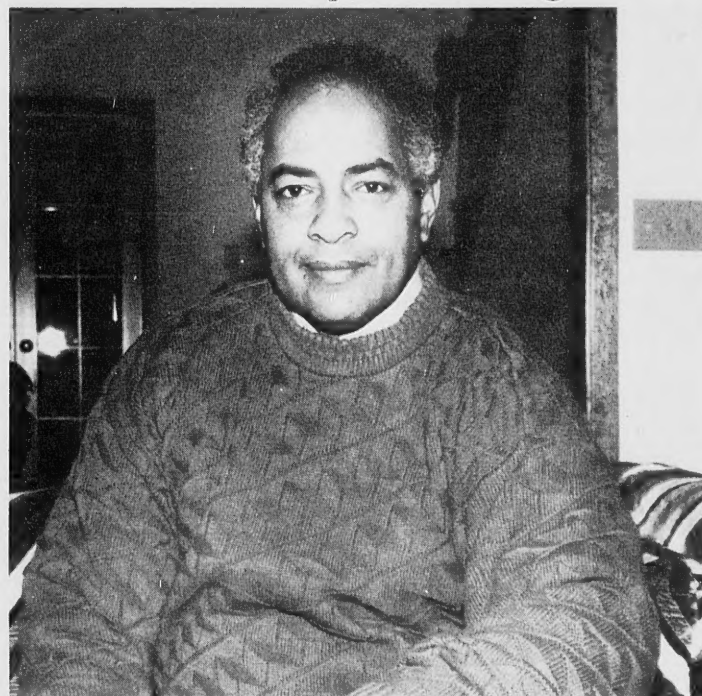

A lifetime resident of Massachusetts, the 49-year-old Mr. Gonsalves was born and raised in New Bedford. He attended Ohio Central State in Wilburforce, Ohio, and served in Vietnam resupplying combat troops by plane, truck or boat so close to action that he often he could "feel the air moving violently and earth shaking under his feet."

After working for Exxon Aircraft Engine Group for 20 years and owning several small businesses around the Boston area, Mr. Gonsalves purchased Palace Spa six years ago.

A new resident of 18 Knollcrest Drive with his wife, Donna; son, Steven Jr., a UMass student; and daughter, Jessica, a third-grader at West Elementary, Mr. Gonsalves has already noticed the great richness of wildlife in West Andover. An avid hiker, he has seen beavers, hawks, the neighborhood coyote, partridge, several kinds of ducks and a family of deer with a yearling.

He believes it's important to get to know the neighbors and to take advantage of everything that Andover has to offer. Although Steven Gonsalves considers himself an "average Joe Private Citizen," his wife proudly says, "He is a
